Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrel E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose Incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 106,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 13,903 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president.

The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to candidate:

Terrel Clark — 106,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,003

Carl Hansen — 86,023
Joe Woods — 77,638
Hal Tyrell — 76,544
Ron Larson — 62,156

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maline Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,849 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tecson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Chamber to protest Dundee Road delay to legislators

The Buffalo Grove Chamber of Commerce will send letters to Gov. Daniel Walker and several state legislators protesting "the lack of progress" in the widening and repaving of Dundee Road.

David Potter, president of the group said yesterday the condition of the road is not only dangerous, but also is creating a hardship for many area businesses.

Due to the construction, Potter said many businesses have been forced to close driveways leading to Dundee Road. The closed driveways limit access to the establishments and hurts business, he said.

Potter said he fears if construction is not expedited, the road will be left in its present condition until spring. The Chamber is hopeful Walker and the legislators will put pressure on the state and contractor of the project to get at least two lanes paved before winter.

STATE OFFICIALS have said most of the delays are due to a cement shortage. Workmen began paving about two weeks ago, but were stopped for almost a week when cement supplies ran out.

Work resumed last week, but state officials said it would continue only if cement can be obtained. The project consists of widening 16,000 feet of Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53, through Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways said the cement shortage and the time of year make it questionable whether two lanes will be finished by winter.

State officials are attempting to obtain cement from a variety of suppliers, he said. At this time of year, however, he said there could be weather problems which could prevent workers from pouring the concrete.

IF THE CEMENT can be obtained and the weather remains good, he said workers can pave about 1,500 feet of road a day. Workmen began paving west from Elmhurst Road and were planning to be to Buffalo Grove Road by today, he said.

Last week the Buffalo Grove Village Board passed a resolution asking that two lanes of the road be completed by Dec. 1. In passing the resolution, board members said completing two lanes would at least partially eliminate some of the present traffic hazards.

Since construction began, the road has been the scene of numerous auto accidents. At least one man has been killed on that stretch of the road.

3 village residents sought for new hospital board

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon said Friday that he is still looking for three Wheeling residents to become members of the board of directors for the proposed Franklin Boulevard Community satellite hospital.

Four directors will come from Wheeling and three from Buffalo Grove. Scanlon said he worked through St. Mary's Church and The Herald to attract Buffalo Grove residents to the directors' posts.

He said Buffalo Grove has had its members selected, but declined to release their names until the board is filled.

He also said the only name received for Wheeling is village administrative assistant M. O. Horcher's. Horcher is the former Wheeling police chief and is an officer for Childerly Retreat House. The house occupies the property on which the hospital would like to build at 506 McHenry Rd.

Scanlon said he is seeking the names of people active in community affairs. He would like the residents to apply for the board as soon as possible so screening can begin and the board can be selected.

According to Norman Davis, consultant for the proposed 200-bed hospital, the board of directors is needed before any application can be made for the facility.

Scanlon said that as soon as he receives the names of the directors he will reveal them as well as the results of a community survey to the public. Davis said last week that the survey seemed to indicate a reasonable need for a hospital.

Beth Judea meeting set

The Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Judea will have its monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Kingswood Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove. The church is located on Dundee Road between Golfview Terrace and Crofton Lane.

Guest speaker will be The Herald's Consumerism writer, Monica Welch. She will discuss toy safety, government consumer standards and consumer problems in general.

Boundaries stirring little response

Proposed boundaries for the City of Prospect Heights not to include four companies east of the Cook County Forest Preserve now appears certain.

Prospect Heights Improvement Association member Richard Wolf, who is on the boundary committee, said last week responses from three of the firms have been negative.

"In general, at the present time, Allstate Insurance Co. is not interested," Wolf said. He added that Illinois Bell Telephone Co.'s reaction to being included as part of Prospect Heights was "one of somewhat indifference."

Further, Wolf said the impression he received from the telephone company officials was that they'd prefer to become a part of Northbrook as they already get fire protection from that community.

Culligan Water Softening Co. officials already have said they want to become a part of Northbrook. The fourth firm is A. C. Nielsen Co., the public opinion firm.

Wolf also said it appears unlikely the proposed boundaries will be changed with regard to Rand Road. "We have gotten no positive response from either residents or businesses along Rand Road," he said.

It had been suggested to the boundary committee that the boundaries be changed to include the four eastern firms and businesses along Rand Road to increase the proposed municipality's sales tax rebate revenue. Communities in Illinois receive one penny for each dollar spent within their boundaries.

The PHIA hopes to fill incorporation papers in Cook County Circuit Court by the end of the year. Wolf said the petition papers are still being drawn up and soon will be distributed so that the necessary 200 signatures of registered voters can be obtained.

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLEH

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "skyrocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 26 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

Is modular best? This Des Plaines home is a matter of debate.

Suburban digest

Truck-train wreck kills 3 in Bartlett

Two persons were killed Friday morning when a gravel truck struck a Milwaukee Road R.R. commuter train near Bartlett, Ill. The long Thanksgiving holiday meant that the commuter train carried only 60 passengers compared to its normal load of some 600 riders.

The gravel truck plowed into the train at a fog-shrouded crossing, causing one railroad official to describe the accident scene as "the worst thing I've ever seen." Killed in the crash were the driver of the truck and an engineer of one of two commuter trains involved.

A portent of housing to come?

A house on the corner of Greco and Morse streets in Des Plaines is causing some debate among city officials and may be a hint of the coming thing in new home construction. The home is of prebuilt modular construction and originally was criticized by city officials as inappropriate for Des Plaines. But the small home passed the city's building inspection, thus raising the idea that modular building could pass muster in some suburban communities.

Proponents of the prebuilt house contend that the home can be built cheaper and sturdier than on-site housing. Opponents in the area complain their property values are in danger.

Track living upgrading urged

Improvements to upgrade living quarters and fire precautions at Arlington Park Race Track were among recommendations made by a special Arlington Heights village task force on the track. Among the proposals made by the village was a three-way fire protection system, new toilets in several locations and heating for rooms for backstretch personnel — or the provision that those rooms only be used in the summer months.

Water-rate panel to be formed

Some 30 suburban officials will meet soon to form an organization that can negotiate with the City of Chicago over future water rate increases. Involving Des Plaines and other suburbs to the east that use Chicago water, the group of officials are meeting following a boost in Chicago water rates of 34 per cent.

Long Grove bids to save church

Members of the Long Grove congregation of a church built in 1848 are rallying to help save the community landmark. The church was first built by German immigrants to the area and has survived declining membership and decades of weather on the prairie. Now the membership wants to replace the decaying roof at a cost of some $7,000.

NOISE ABATEMENT is one goal of the newly announced work to improve the instrument landing equipment on Runway 22L at O'Hare Airport. Federal aviation officials also expect work to begin on 22R this winter, bringing the improved landing system to a total of six runways. The equipment is already operating on runways 27R, 27L, 14L and 9R, allowing planes to come in slightly higher than with older systems.

Gas station weekend ban won't be a big change

If President Nixon had placed a ban on Sunday gasoline sales effective yesterday, few suburban motorists would have noticed: many neighborhood gas stations in the Northwest suburbs have been closed on Sunday for the past five or six months.

A Herald spot check of local gasoline stations yesterday showed many already closed and of those open, most operators didn't even bother to squawk about the new ban.

According to gas station operators, the stations now get a fixed amount of gasoline to sell anyway, and if they don't sell it on Sunday it will be sold during the rest of the week.

STATIONS SUCH as the Shell outlet at Wilke and Euclid in Arlington Heights have been closed Sundays for several months because according to Bill Kempisty, "we sell too much gasoline on Sunday. If you sell gas on Sunday you run out of your supply two days before the next load of gas comes in... either way you're closed sometime during the week."

And a 20 year veteran of the gasoline business, Jim Service who runs an Arco station, feels the same way: "It's just a matter of changing people's buying habits," he said. "Not too long ago stations were open all hours, but I can also remember when barber shops used to be open and you could get a haircut at 9 o'clock, but that's changed, too."

However, one station operator spoke more as a driver than as a seller of gasoline. "If Nixon closes us down on Sunday he's going to make a lot of people mad. I'm planning a trip. What am I going to do?"

Work to start on system to lower O'Hare noise level

Work is scheduled to begin next month on another instrument landing system to make approaches safer and a bit quieter at O'Hare Airport, according to the Federal Aviation Administration.

The new system will be the fifth at O'Hare to provide a three-degree landing slope. Depending on how close a community is to the airport, the new system will keep planes higher and therefore quieter, FAA officials say. Completion of the work is expected by mid-summer.

An anti-noise pollution group known as National Organization to Insure a Sound-controlled Environment (NOISE) recently urged federal officials to install the devices at all runways as one step toward quieter airport operations.

THE NEW $38,500 contract is for runway 22L, which has an approach over Park Ridge, Niles, Morton Grove, Glenview, Winnetka and part of Chicago. The automatic two-part system keeps planes on a three-degree path even during poor visibility conditions, enabling pilots to line up with a runway without visual reference. Both parts utilize radio beams for operation.

The FAA plans to raise all of O'Hare's glide slopes to three degrees in the near future, according to FAA Great Lakes Regional Director John M. Cyrocki. He said runways 9R-27L and 27R have had three-degree glide slopes for some time, and the slope on 14L was raised this fall when new equipment was installed. Present slopes on others range from 2 to 2½ degrees.

While our main concern must always be safety, FAA is also concerned about reduction of aircraft noise for communities surrounding O'Hare," Cyrocki said. Citing new FAA regulations for manufacturing of quieter jets, plus new landing equipment, Cyrocki said airports should be better neighbors in a short time.

"The value of aviation to the community is so great that it cannot continue to detract from this reputation by making too much noise," he said.

THE FAA ALSO announced plans last week to award a contract shortly for new instrument landing equipment on runway 22R, which brings planes in over Des Plaines, Park Ridge, Northbrook and Highland Park.

The new glide path angles mean a difference of about 500 feet in altitude for planes over communities eight to 10 miles from the airport, but the advantage decreases closer to O'Hare.

After both new systems are installed, O'Hare will have the improved glide slope equipment on six of its 13 runway approaches. Cyrocki said O'Hare already is "the world's best instrumented airport," and continued improvements will make it safe and quieter.

Hyde to seek 6th District Congress seat

by United Press International

State Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Park Ridge, has announced he will run for Congress from the 6th District, which covers the western suburbs.

Hyde, 49, will seek the seat being vacated by Rep. Harold Collier, who announced earlier this month he would go into private business.

Hyde previously had announced his candidacy for president of the Cook County Board but said he has withdrawn his name from consideration for that post.

"Many committeemen have persuaded me Congress would be the place I would be most useful," Hyde said. "I have a sufficient number of committeemen supporting me for Congress to encourage me to make the race."

Hyde is currently serving his fourth term in the Illinois House. He served as majority leader during his third term, but fell from power when he tried unsuccessfully last year to defeat W. Robert Blair, R-Park Forest, as speaker of the house.

Hyde is an outspoken conservative and was chief sponsor of the death-penalty bill that Gov. Daniel Walker signed into law this fall.

Photography lecture Tuesday at Oakton

Joe Jachma, head of the department of photography at the Chicago Circle Campus, University of Illinois, will discuss the art of photography in Chicago in the continuing artist lecture series, "Who Is Chicago," at Oakton Community College on Tuesday at 9:30 a.m.

He will discuss his personal principles and practice of the art of photography, relating them to the fundamental principles he learned at the Institute of Design and as a lifelong resident of Chicago.

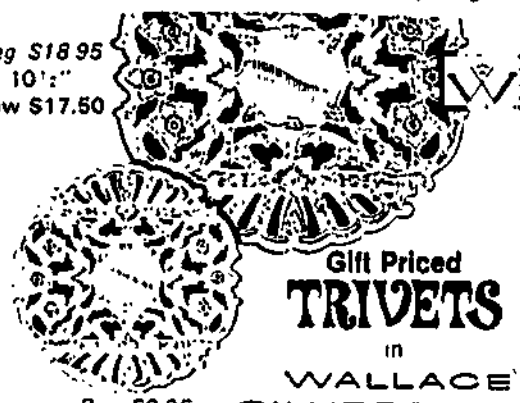

In the "Who Is Chicago" series, a practicing artist visits the campus each week to discuss and illustrate his work and offer his views on Chicago as an environment for the arts.

Nixon outlines 6-point energy battle plan

Citing the need to take, "strong, effective countermeasures" to the nation's energy crisis, President Richard Nixon last night outlined six steps the nation must take in order to get through the winter with a minimum amount of discomfort.

Nixon's directives:

- Diverting 15 per cent of oil production from gasoline to heating oil.
- Close all gasoline service stations from 9 p.m. Saturday night to midnight Sunday effective Dec. 1. At the moment, the President made this step voluntary but noted he soon expected to get legal authorization from the Congress for this action.
- Establishment of 50 mile per hour speed limits on all highways for passenger cars. Trucks and buses will be limited to 55 mph. Once again, the President expects to get authority from Congress for the directive.
- An additional 15 per cent reduction of jet fuel, bringing the total reduction to date to 25 per cent. The President said the result will be fewer commercial flights with more passengers on each flight.
- Cutback of outdoor lighting, especially ornamental lighting prominent in "neon strips" and in traditional outdoor Christmas lighting.

—Reduction in the availability of heating oil; reductions of 10 per cent for industry, 15 per cent for home use and 25 per cent for commercial use.

In calling for national support for his actions, Nixon repeated his earlier call for a massive national effort to make this country self-sufficient in its sources of energy. The President emphasized the independence of the United States in the past and reiterated his idea for "Project Independence," the goal of making this country unaffected by foreign fuel actions by the year 1980.

In the President's address he outlined what has become his administration's preliminary plans for compelling Americans to curtail their consumption of fuel. Nixon stopped short of rationing gasoline or seeking huge increases in gasoline taxes.

The steps he outlines, however, were clearly aimed at getting the country to cut back on the 17 million barrels of petroleum burned daily. Anticipated shortages of some 20 per cent, or 3.5 million barrels less than is burned daily, are anticipated.

Some action taken by the President

Sunday is already within his power. Imposed speed limits, bans on outdoor lighting, curtailed fuels for flying and gasoline sales are all powers which the President will be granted when Congress completes action on the National Energy Emergency Act. The measure has already been passed by the Senate and will go to the House Commerce Committee today.

Following the President's message the White House revealed that private passenger car use will be reduced by 24 per cent as a result of the sales ban and that houses and stores will be a little colder this winter. There is also the distinct possibility of electrical "brownouts" this winter if demands on electricity rise to meet the fuel allocated for electrical generation.

Full cooperation from state and local governments is expected following Nixon's plea for help from other branches of government.

In anticipating the rising anxiety over jobs and the economy, Nixon said, "any disruptions to our economy and jobs will be brief." The President also called on all citizens to help meet the crisis... "sacrificing a little so that no one will endure real hardship."

Price of energy cuts: unemployment

On the eve of the first government imposed energy restrictions since World War II, oil and fuel experts agreed the United States will survive the current crisis better than Europe or Japan, but that higher unemployment in this country will be one of the penalties.

The experts and their comments:

—Walter J. Levy, independent adviser to the U.S. government and several international oil companies, said if the Arab oil embargo continues the United States could survive "in some form or fashion. It would not be without sacrifices and not without severe losses but we could handle it." On the other hand, he said, neither Europe nor Japan are in a position to maintain their economic activities on any acceptable level without the availability of that oil. Levy's one optimistic view was that "in seven, eight, nine years our country can be fundamentally self-sufficient in oil."

—John Sweringen, chairman of the board of Standard Oil of Indiana, was one of several oil industry spokesmen who said he foresees unemployment in this country up to around 8 per cent if the Arab oil crunch continues. Sweringen said the bulk of the current 4.5 per cent unemployment is focused on young, single men and women, but if further cutbacks come from the energy shortage, the real brunt of unemployment will fall on the married working man.

Sweringen was optimistic about a political accommodation in the Mideast within 12 months. The compromise must come, he predicted, because the combined political and industrial weight of the western nations will force the Arabs to reconsider. "If it's not, the situation over there is going to be so tense and so tight we're going to be on the verge of a real conflagration which would involve the major powers as well as the minor ones that are already in the Mideast," Sweringen said.

Clearly, Western Europe is girding for the worst.

Six European nations Sunday banned a total of nearly 30 million motor vehicles from their roads in efforts to save enough fuel to see them through the winter.

Little grumbling was reported among the 94 million residents of West Germany, Switzerland, Belgium, Denmark, Luxembourg and the Netherlands as horse drawn carts, bicycles and pedestrians took to the roads.

For Holland, it was the fourth consecutive carless Sunday. The tiny nation is receiving the focus of Arab displeasure because of Holland's support of Israel.

Although police reported there were few incidents of violations of the ban on cars, fines and penalties were so stiff few would run the risk of encountering police while in a car.

Unlike motorists in the United States who so far have faced relatively minor inconveniences of lower speed limits, European motorists are facing the real thing.

In Belgium, violators of the Sunday driving ban face fines up to $75,000; in West Germany the fine can be $60,000. Even worse for flabby motorists, West German police intend to stop Sunday drivers, make them walk home and return for their cars on Monday.

Naturally, other means of transportation flourished. Horse drawn cabs were booked in advance. Swiss train and bus travel was up 20 per cent, and bicycles were everywhere.

But still the situation worsens for Holland. Dutch Secretary of State Michel van Hulten told his countrymen the amount of fuel being saved on Sunday appears to be insufficient. He said a ban on any journey more than 13 miles from home "deserves full attention."

Other reactions:

—Pope Paul VI called on Christians to face the growing energy crisis with "public spirit" and to help one another through coming difficulties. The Pontiff spoke in his usual Sunday blessing of the need to "brace for austerity."

—And a report from New York indicated the Mafia is well organized and prepared to go with counterfeit gas coupons should rationing go into effect. According to one report, "the Mafia seems better organized for gas rationing than the government."

New President of Greece

Gyzikis, a 'good soldier, kind man'

By United Press International

Phaedon Gyzikis, the new President of Greece, is a six-foot career army officer with a reputation for being "a good soldier and a kind man."

The 55-year-old infantry lieutenant-general was graduated from the Greek cadet school in 1939. At the head of that class was Dimitrios Zagorianakos, who was deposed as armed forces chief in Sunday's coup along with President George Papadopoulos.

Gyzikis held junior command posts during World War II in Albania and in the Greek army war against Communist guerrillas from 1946 to 1950.

When a military coup brought George Papadopoulos to the presidency on April 21, 1967 Gyzikis was a senior colonel with the 1st army based in Larissa.

Gyzikis remained loyal to Papadopoulos in King Constantine's abortive counter-coup in December, 1967. His reward was a promotion to brigadier

Military overthrows Papadopoulos

ATHENS (UPI) — The Greek armed forces Sunday overthrew President George Papadopoulos and installed a little-known general, Phaedon Gyzikis, 55, in his place. The military also set up a new, all-civilian cabinet led by a U.S. trained lawyer-economist, Adamantios Androutsopoulos, to restore stability in the country.

In their second coup in six years, the military chiefs charged Papadopoulos with "trying to fool the Greek people" with false plans for free elections and general and a post as military commander of Athens.

Gyzikis was also the senior military official responsible for the indictment of martial law violators by military tribunals. Military colleagues, even those who found themselves opposed to the regime established in April 1967, said Gyzikis said they wanted to "save the country once more." There were no reports of resistance anywhere in Greece.

Papadopoulos was placed under house arrest at his home in Lagonissi, a seaside villa 25 miles southeast of Athens.

Soldiers yesterday kept the Athens airport closed and cut off all air, telephone and cable communications with the outside world. A strict curfew also was imposed on Greece's two biggest cities — Athens and Salonica.

had compassion for the defendants, especially when they happened to be former fellow officers.

"I will execute my duties with moderation, modesty and impartiality," Gyzikis said.

After his command of the Athens area, Gyzikis was promoted to major general and appointed commander of the riding forces which includes the tough paratroopers who spearheaded the 1967 military takeover.

Although an outsider to this corps, Gyzikis was accepted by the officers and men as one of their own.

Gyzikis, whose wife died of cancer last year, left the raiding forces with the rank of lieutenant general and took command of the 3rd Army Corps in Salonica, Greece's largest unit.

Last summer he took command of the 1st Greek army in Larissa, which includes all of Greek combat troops.

It was from there that he stepped into the presidency.

People

- She's five-foot, three-inches tall, 17 years old and a bundle of beauty and talent — that's Lori Lei Matsukawa, the new Miss Teenage America crowned Saturday night. Miss Matsukawa, whose grandparents were among the first Japanese immigrants to Hawaii, won the competition in Ft. Worth, Tex. with her performance of the Canoe Song and a dance of the Maoris of New Zealand. The new Miss Teenage America received a $10,000 college scholarship, shares of stock, and $5,000 in travel expenses.
- What do billionaires do in their spare time? According to a report in December's Fortune magazine, Howard Hughes sneaks out of his London hotel and flies a turboprop airplane around the British countryside. And according to people who have seen him recently, the wealthy recluse looks remarkably fit and is now sporting a Vandyke beard on his chin.
- Reports that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower may have contemplated divorcing Mamie while he was head of the Allied forces in London may be true. A letter sent to Army Chief of Staff Gen. George Marshall by Ike during World War II purportedly asks for advice about divorcing Mamie and marrying Kay Summersby, his driver in London. According to one report, Gen. Marshall told Ike it "would be the most stupid thing" he could do.

- No longer blown in the wind, folk rock superstar Bob Dylan is getting ready to go back to work. Dylan will go back on tour next year, following a self-imposed aversion to public engagements since the famous Bangladesh concert of 1971. Dylan may even start his new tour in Chicago.
- But for lesser musicians, some criticism from Cong. Les Aspin, D-Wis. Aspin revealed that the Pentagon will be paying military musicians about $3,500 each in bonuses for reenlistment, even though such bonuses are supposed to be specialties critical to the national defense. Asks Aspin, "are piccolo players critical to the national defense?"

Israel doesn't expect UN justice

Israel's nearly 3 million citizens know better than to expect much by way of justice for their nation in the United Nations.

For they have learned over the years to expect that Israel will be voted against, almost automatically, by a large coalition of Communist and Arab countries who are now beginning to purchase African votes as well.

Israel, on the other hand, might expect some semblance of fairness from the National Council of Churches in the U.S. For all 31 of the Protestant and Orthodox denominations who belong to this organization are self-professed followers of Jesus Christ.

On Saturday, Oct. 6, however, while Jesus' fellow Jews of the Holy Land were observing the solemnity of Yom Kippur, the armies of Egypt and Syria struck simultaneously.

Did the NCC deplore the massive sacrifice of using the holiest day of the Jewish year to start a war? It did nothing of the kind.

THE NCC General Board, meeting only one week later in New York, resolved that it "deplores the outbreak of hostilities." (The absolute nonexistence of any self-identified "hostility lobby" rendered this neat solution comparable to resolving officially against the menacing shark.)

The NCC General Board also called upon the U.S. government "to use the present spirit of détente, especially with the USSR, to effect an immediate mutual cessation of arms shipments to the belligerents."

This resolution was passed despite the enormous airlift of weapons by the Soviet Union to Damascus and Cairo. And considering the obvious lack of influence of any Church council upon the Kremlin, this resolution, whatever its intent, constituted a call for an arms embargo upon Israel alone.

Such an embargo proposal, if it had not been ignored by the U.S. government, would have very possibly resulted in Israel's defeat, and a genocide on the Mediterranean, courtesy of the Syrians and the Iraqis, if not the Egyptians.

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

THE AMERICAN Jewish Committee's two guest observers at the NCC meeting, Rabbi James Rudin and the Rev. Gerald Strober (Presbyterian), were appalled by this resolution. And so were a few of the NCC delegates such as Cleveland's Episcopal Bishop John Burt, who tried valiantly, but in vain, to amend this embargo proposal.

The AJC observers noted with deep regret the NCC's "failure to deal with the reality of the Middle East War," including "aggression threatening the very existence of the State of Israel."

What the AJC did not say (understandably, as they were guests) is the fact that while church property is sacrosanct in Israel, in Libya, strongman Muammar Qaddafi can expropriate an entire Roman Catholic Cathedral and turn it into a mosque, without so much as a murmur of international protest.

There also are the NCC's Arab member-denominations, such as the Antiochian Orthodox (until recently Syrian Orthodox) bodies, who, while contributing little or nothing to their share of NCC's budget, use the NCC as a national platform for Arab propaganda.

ANY OF THESE Arab denominations might walk out of the NCC (as did the Seventh Day Baptists, only this year). If such withdrawals begin to multiply, the NCC's image of many denominational members could be seriously tarnished.

This ecclesiastical fact of life is approximated by the old question as to why the U.S. should offend 100 million Arabs who control a lot of oil, simply for the sake of 3 million Jews. Answered Golda Meir, who seconded the AJC's expressed regret about the NCC:

"If the United States would sacrifice the lives of millions for the sake of oil, this is not the America I once knew."

Learning disabilities topic at Hersey High

A psychologist will discuss "Learning Disabilities and Family Life" Wednesday at the monthly meeting of the Council on Understanding Learning Disabilities (COULD).

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. in Room 124-C of Hersey High School. Kenneth Moses, a psychologist and assistant professor at Northwestern University will speak.

Train rider gives thanks—for life

by JERRY THOMAS

"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducked down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passengers on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1162 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

Killed in the collision were Dean H. Jordan, 40, of 760 Walnut St., Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurisse, 56, of 632 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurisse, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

Another passenger, Michael Troops, 17, of 280 Norman Nelson, Elgin, suffered cuts around his eyes in the crash but did not require stitches. He was resting in bed at home soon after the collision. "He told me the first thing he knew he was on the floor and then trying to get out," said his father.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All train-jured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

"We have no witnesses, but you could have stood on top of that intersection and seen nothing, because of the fog" said the policeman. "The sheared off gate arms make us believe the lights and arms were down and working."

127-year-old landmark

Community rallying to save Long Grove Church

by JILL BETTNER

Rekindling the spirit of the first German settlers who pitched in with hearts and hands to build the Long Grove Church back in 1846, the present congregation is rallying to save the community landmark.

The simple white-frame New England meetinghouse has stood near the covered bridge on the edge of the tiny village since the time only sprawling farms showed on the horizon.

It has remained, withstanding the exodus of many farmers who left the area during World War II. Through hard times in the early 1950s, when membership was dangerously low and the church was without a minister, it continued to exist.

THE CHURCH is still there, practically a remnant of the past, now that much of the rolling countryside surrounding it has been replaced by suburban tri-levels, quadro-homes and apartments.

Although a few of the descendants of the first families who erected the church still are members, the real strength of the church now lies in a new breed of settler, the suburbanite, who perhaps isn't really so different from his ancestors.

The spark of whatever it is that moved the early members of the church and the congregations following to build and preserve the church is still alive in the present congregation.

They have joined in a determined effort to see the church through the latest crisis that threatens its continued existence.

The crisis is the decaying roof of the structure that must be entirely replaced, a job estimated to cost nearly $7,000. The budget of the small church can't meet the need, so the members have taken on the responsibility of raising the money themselves.

They're conducting raffles, giving parties and asking for donations from others interested in preserving the 127-year-old landmark.

IMPRESSED with the fund-raising effort, a local Long Grove businessman is helping out by employing members of the church choir to sing Christmas carols outside his store during the holiday season.

The choir began caroling in front of Mangel Florists yesterday and planned to sing again today and several weekends before Christmas.

As their share in the project to obtain money for the roof repairs, Chuck and Jackie Pipher are planning a "Raising the Roof" party next Friday evening at their Kildeer home.

Mrs. Pipher said donations are being asked of the expected 110 guests.

Commenting on the couple's reason for taking the time and trouble to plan the party, Mrs. Pipher said, "We love that church. It's a landmark and none of us want to see it go. It's just that simple. If the roof isn't repaired, slowly but surely it will go."

Anyone else wanting to contribute to the roof repair fund should contact Michael Paul, minister of the Long Grove Church at 634-3635.

Lake County college area may get Stevenson High

Adlai Stevenson High School Dist. 125, Prairie View, will probably be assigned next month to the College of Lake County Junior College District by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Dist. 125 is not a part of any junior college district.

The Dist. 125 Board of Education has decided not to oppose the assignment to the College of Lake County district.

A study conducted by school officials shows that the number of junior college students in Dist. 125 is about equally divided between those who attend College of Lake County and Harper Junior College in Palatine.

The majority of school board members have said they favor joining the College of Lake County district because the school is closer for most residents.

SCHOOL BOARD Pres. Robert Anderson said the curriculum of the College of Lake County is also better suited to Dist. 125 students. He added that there are indications that the school would probably construct a second campus in the Stevenson High School area if the district is annexed.

Even after Dist. 125 is assigned to the College of Lake County junior college district by the State Board of Education, residents may vote to withdraw from the district by conducting a special election.

If 50 local voters petition for a referendum to disannex from the junior college district and the referendum is successful, Dist. 125 would again become a nonjunior college district. This would mean that Stevenson students would continue paying out-of-district tuition fees to state junior colleges.

CURRENTLY, DIST. 125 levies less than five cents per $100 of assessed valuation to pay the out-of-district tuition for residents who attend state junior colleges. According to Anderson, if the assessed valuation of the district continues to climb at the present rate, the district could afford to absorb the expense for the next few years.

If voters choose to accept the assignment to the College of Lake County district, the junior college district would make a separate levy of about 16 to 18 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Stevenson High School would no longer be involved financially.

Pact to be awarded for six police cars

The Wheeling Village Board tonight will award the purchase of six police vehicles to the low bidder.

The village had investigated leasing rather than purchasing the police cars. After taking bids for both, village officials decided to purchase the cars.

The board also will consider recommendations to allow a fence variation and open storage for a brick yard proposed for Alderman Avenue.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Wheeling man dead after car-bike crash

A 20-year-old Wheeling man died Saturday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines from injuries he suffered Friday when his motorcycle struck a car on River Road, south of Foundry Road, near Mount Prospect.

State police said Robert L. Schulte, of 823 Macintosh Rd., Wheeling, was injured at 10:33 p.m. Friday when his motorcycle hit a car that was waiting to make a left turn. Both vehicles were southbound on River Road when the accident occurred, police said.

The driver of the car, Katherine Bartlett, 21, of Brook, Wis., and a passenger were treated for minor injuries at the hospital. No charges have been filed.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Swiss team scores big hit

Oswald: "The Swiss team has become the most popular form of bridge tournament. Everyone wants a play in a Swiss and entries of several hundred teams in a regional are common. The standard event is of two sessions during which each team plays eight matches of seven boards each. IMP scoring is used. Ties are not broken with each team scoring 1/2 point. A win by one or two IMPs counts as three quarters of a point to the winner and one quarter to the loser."

Jim: "The best teams are seeded for the first round. After that winners play winners and losers play losers. Thus in the later rounds the competition for the good teams is tough; the bad teams will be playing equally bad teams and almost everybody will win at least one match."

Oswald: "A lucky slam will decide most Swiss matches. Bad slam bidding decides many more."

Jim: "The bidding at both tables started with an artificial two clubs. There was a two-diamond overcall and a two-heart bid by North. At one table South jumped right to six spades and North passed. At the other table the bidding continued as shown in the box with South making the final winning bid of seven."

Hospital deserves I-90 access

There's the compelling and over-riding argument of the public's interest in support of Alexian Brothers Medical Center's request for easier access to its ground.

The Elk Grove Village hospitals are a victim of the manner in which the area around it has grown. Area residents approaching from the north, south or west now must take one of two routes to reach the Bieserfield Road address:

—By narrow, indirect, two-lane roads from the Schaumburg Twp., area. Some of the roads are dead-ended by I-90.

—By I-90 to Higgins or Thorndale Road, located sufficiently distant from the hospital to increase the trip by at least five minutes — which could be a matter of life or death, in certain emergencies.

The obvious solution is to build a complete interchange at I-90 - Bieserfield Road. The hospital has launched a letter-writing campaign to that effect, and Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg officials have vowed support.

The appeal must go to state and federal officials, who have in the past banned such an interchange, on the reasoning that Bieserfield Road is too close to the Thorndale and Higgins Interchanges.

There are some plausible reasons for opposing the interchange idea. Some area residents and public officials have argued that an interchange will pump too much traffic through the heart of Elk Grove Village. A winter recreation area in the Ned Brown Forest Preserve will only increase exit traffic from I-90 at Bieserfield, they argue.

These fears are legitimate. However, local police action and the careful use of traffic controls can channel the traffic into manageable quantities and keep it off residential streets.

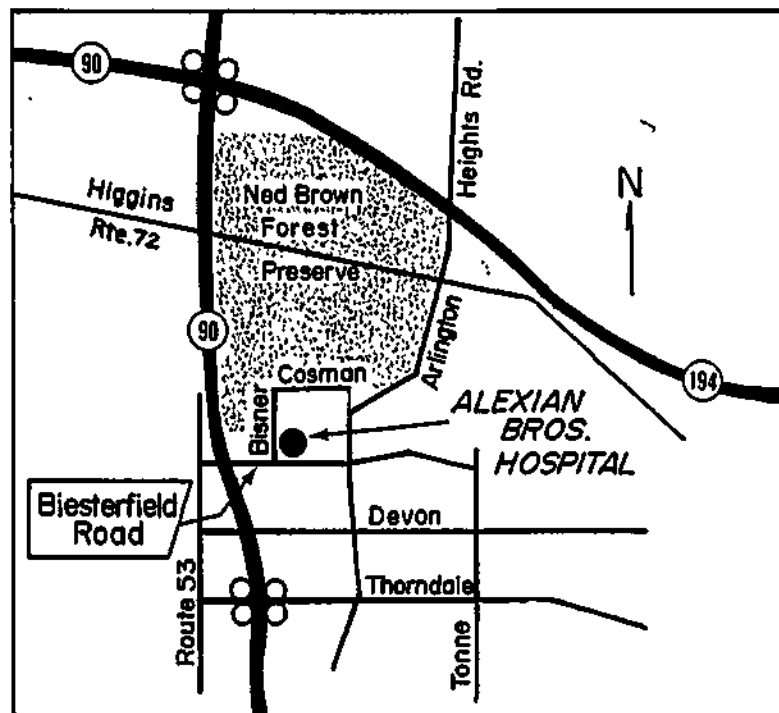

Paramount in this situation is the importance of medical care in the Northwest suburbs — and the fact that easy hospital access is only one link in the overall care and treatment of ill or injured persons.

An access route off I-90 must be coupled with our outstanding local paramedic system, which has saved many lives. It must also be coupled with excellent medical care available not only at Alexian Brothers but at other hospitals in the Northwest suburbs.

Some traffic hardships may be created, but on balance this area needs the easy access to Alexian Brothers. The state and federal governments should move as quickly as possible to make certain that the I-90 - Bieserfield interchange is constructed.

No 'generation of peace' yet

by STEWART HENSLEY

WASHINGTON — The "generation of peace" which President Nixon hoped to produce still eludes him, jeopardized on two critical fronts — Southeast Asia and the Middle East.

It is true, as administration spokesmen repeatedly point out, that for the first time in more than a decade no U.S. troops are in battle in any area. But this does not mean the world is "at peace."

In the wake of the fourth Arab-Israeli war, a shaky cease-fire prevails but the explosive potential remains very high. The difficulty of finding some lasting peace formula has been increased by the decision of the Arabs to use their oil production as a political weapon against the United States and other supporters of Israel.

In Southeast Asia, "peace with honor" has not ended the fighting, although it extricated the Americans. There are recent clashes and Hanoi is undertaking a major military build-up in the areas of South Vietnam it occupies. In the view of many U.S. authorities, it is preparing to launch an offensive to topple the Saigon regime of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

The State Department from time to time warns Hanoi of unspecified risks the Communists would run if they renewed the war in Vietnam. Practically, officials realize there is really nothing they can do because the Congress, as well as public opinion, has foreclosed any further U.S. military action in that area.

It is, therefore, the Middle East, a proverbial military and diplomatic can of worms, which at present occupies virtually all the attention of Kissinger and the President when he is not engaged in defending himself on the domestic front.

This strategic area, the bridge of the East and West, contains a combination of emotional, economic and geopolitical factors of such an explosive nature it poses the prime danger of a confrontation between the two nuclear superpowers.

It will not be possible to declare "peace" in the world until this smoldering time bomb is defused.

Nixon and Kissinger are devotees of the policy of seeking settlement of regional disputes within the context of big power agreement. The detente with the Soviet Union and breakthrough in China were achieved by utilizing the leverage provided by the Sino-Soviet split, playing one Communist power against the other to make diplomatic progress agreeable to Washington.

In the Middle East, the United States previously expressed a desire to be helpful but disclaimed any desire to become involved in the negotiations for settlement.

Now, however, Kissinger makes it clear he believes the United States and Russia must actually participate along with Israel and several Arab states, in the peace conference which he hopes will begin before the end of this year. However, the odds are that such a conference, if it comes to pass, will probably not occur before January.

In any event, virtually all diplomats would agree a peace formula must be found for the turbulent Middle East if there should be any real opportunity for creation of a stable world. (UPI)

Tom Wellman's column

Graffiti: art or trash?

Tom Wellman

There is a greater peril approaching the Chicago Transit Authority than the failure to meet its payroll.

Somehow, we are assured, the CTA will be funded, whether through a subsidy or some form of RTA. But there is no assurance that the CTA could withstand the invasion of Taki 183 from deep under the streets of New York City.

Taki is a real person — one of hundreds, perhaps thousands, of persons who wander through New York's subway system, spray-painting and magic-marking the sides and innards of subway trains with his colorful signature: Taki 183.

"Taki" is his first name, and 183 is his home street, the required signature of all graffitiists in New York. Their "works," which literally cover every inch of every subway car in New York — this reporter can verify the coverage — has become a monstrous headache for transit officials.

According to one report, New York spends $500,000 annually cleaning up after the artists. Squads of police are assembled to try and catch the graffitiists, who move in packs or gangs. It is a pleasant pastime, according to one graffitiist, to sit on a subway platform for hours and count the number of times your name flashes by on the subway cars.

In a city where cultural fads blossom overnight, the graffiti craze has become an art form, unless you are a member of the group which regard it as an unsightly public nuisance.

To a larger degree, however, this form of graffiti represents nothing more than the continuation of a pattern which has been around as long as we've been around.

For those of us who can remember such a nostalgic area, it started with names carved in wood; two names with a carved heart wrapped around them.

Later, perhaps in the 1930s, came the bumper stickers, with their proclamations of political party loyalty. Later, however, the stickers took up causes — "Impeach Earl Warren," "Free Angela" — beyond the electoral process.

Love, it seemed, had become outdated as the graffitiists transferred their art to walls of buildings. The clocktower at the Rebecca Crown Center of Northwestern University in Evanston became a favorite target for the New Left's artists. In fact, wooden construction walls near major universities became favorite targets for the politicized spray can crowd.

T-shirts with emblazoned messages then became popular, and it is today easy to order a T-shirt with any message on it. But today, glancing at the advertisements for them, the messages are less political and more cultural.

Now, we are down into New York's subways for the newest form of personal expression, and in a more flamboyant way we've reverted to the personal, "John Loves Mary" syndrome.

The difference this time, however, is that the message is done by individuals and there is no political content. There's a solitary isolated quality to it that reflects how much the 1970s have become the non-political years.

However, if the splashy color and vivid expressionism of New York's subways is an indication, it's not going to be a quiet decade. One would hope, though, that the pictorial "noise" level as expressed by our young artists would confine itself to the subways under New York and leave the CTA and the Northwest suburbs alone.

Garbage service attacked

This is not my first letter to the Herald concerning Laseke Disposal Co., and from the looks of things, it probably won't be the last.

Laseke's contract was renewed strictly out of sentiment, not for any good record as a garbage pickup service. Larry Rapp, "an employee of Laseke for four years . . ." is a typical example of why the contract should have gone to the other bidder. He wants to have the residents of Arlington Heights put all their garbage in plastic bags, lug them around to the curb on pickup days, do 90 per cent of the work and then he and his fellow-employees should just have to hop out of their trucks, pick up the plastic bags at the curb and get paid an executive salary, with residents doing their work for them.

It's a sad day when 45 years of garbage pickup in Arlington Heights is the deciding factor as to who gets the contract. The type of service rendered isn't even considered. Henry Laseke has it made, and knows it. And since when, even if you call for special pickup at a time other than our once-a-year (big deal) pickup of large items, don't you pay extra for the pickup? I remember being billed in the vicinity of around $13 for having my old dryer and a couple of smaller items hauled away. The entire garbage situation here is appalling, to say the least.

And, as my letter four years ago dealt with Laseke and Halloween, when is our village going to wake up and limit the time "trick or treaters" are allowed to ring doorbells? I never let my children stay out for hours and tried to keep them away from people's homes during dinner hours to let people at least eat their meals in peace and quiet. Other surrounding suburbs, Wheeling, Mount Prospect, etc., have time limits, as does my old hometown, Bellwood, but this "prestige" community is back in the stone ages. We have six stairs inside our home which have to be dealt with every time the doorbell rings. My husband has heart trouble, and if we didn't have a 20-year-old son who was good enough to take over this chore for me, I probably would have had a heart attack myself.

Please, members of the village board, take things like this into consideration and shorten the time period involved.

'Wasteful' rockets

I wonder what is going to be next. First we are told to drive slower to save gas, then we are told to turn off lights when not in use to conserve our electrical energy, now they say to turn our thermostat down and wear sweaters to save on fuel. If there isn't enough fuel for the people, then what are they doing at the Space Center? How many thousands of gallons of fuel did it take to get that stupid rocket off the ground? And for what? Just to keep ahead of Russia. If they wouldn't waste all that fuel to put men into space for who knows how long, we would have enough fuel to heat our homes this winter. And who is paying for that? We are with all our hard-earned money.

'Congratulations, proud thief'

Dear Big Man or Woman:

Just a line to congratulate you on your outstanding accomplishment. You who stole my 13-year-old son's new 10-speed bike from 201 W. Johnson, Palatine, between 4:45 and 5:45 p.m. on November 8 must be very proud of yourself. Especially since it was locked to a strong metal fence. This must require a lot of experience in this line of work.

It might even make you feel more important and proud to know that he carried a 50-pound golf bag two or three times each week all summer and paid for this bike all by himself. He had it one month before you stole it.

I'm sorry you missed the thrill of seeing him so hurt and disappointed when he discovered your brave and courageous act.

Congratulations, thief. You must be very proud.

'Why incorporation?'

The "Spirit of '76" promises Prospect Heights higher taxes and bigger problems if we incorporate. If you review your past tax bills, the only tax that could possibly be removed is the mosquito abatement tax. If state or county taxes are going up, the increase will affect everyone. By incorporating, we will be adding new and expensive taxes and referendums.

In the PHIA Bulletin, it was stated that you need a population of 7,500 people to incorporate. Did you know that Prospect Heights, as it stands now, only has 6,800 people? To meet the 7,500 quota, we must take on some unincorporated areas. Mr. Gilligan told me that Lamplighter and Mandel would be chosen. They would not vote on this annexation, and after incorporation, they could bow out from Prospect Heights within a year, leaving us again with all the financial problems.

Let us review the finances of 6,800 people and how they must be spent. These figures were given to me by Mr. Gilligan: Motor fuel tax comes to $71,000. This is used only for roads, etc. PHIA Bulletin also stated that to contract out road maintenance would be expensive and we would eventually need our own. (1976?) In order to use any of this money, permission from the state is required. Our budget now stands as follows: Sales tax, approx. $56,000, personal tax, approx. $36,000, or a total of $112,000. (These figures are subject to change) This we will receive without any raise in taxes. Now, let's subtract a few known expenses and see if we can afford it. The Police force is the most expensive (also 1976 we might have our own). Mr. Gilligan informed me that Sheriff Elrod will contract approximately five men and equipment to Prospect Heights for $20,000 per man a year. (Total $100,000). This also will leave one man per shift. (Remember, even tho we only have 6,800 people, our town is very large, and if we do get Lamplighter they require constant protection from this one man shift.) If in a few years we have to have our own police force, it will even cost more as we must set up special funds for these men to cover their equipment, pension funds, hospitalization, vacations and relief men.

The new Prospect Heights government can add some extra taxes such as car stickers, approx. $10 per auto, utility taxes, 3 per cent and a home rule tax which would give them the right to tax cigarettes and liquor. Also, think of all the new referendums they can put up to vote for, not to mention the expected schools and park district. Our total of $112,000, subtracting the $100,000 for police, and $4,000 for census leaves a budget of $8,000 for our town expenses for the year. These would include legal fees, building rentals, correspondence, office equipment and workers. Just to mention a few. Mr. Gilligan said that the situation is such that his group and the people of Prospect Heights cannot afford to wait. Can we afford to vote for incorporation without knowing our future budget or boundaries? Must we look forward to double talk, or wait for the surprise of the filing date? Just how many more surprises does Mr. Gilligan have in store for us. Unless you are the "Howell's of 'Gilligan's Island,'" don't vote yes until you have a financial budget or know that financial support will be possible.

We know we can incorporate, but what's the rush!!! Let's iron out the problems beforehand with honesty and openness, as all of the people of Prospect Heights are very interested and concerned as to where and how their money is being spent.

Gloria Jaworski
Prospect Heights

Library's thankful

The Palatine Public Library Board of Trustees wish you to know how very much reporter Julia Bauer's excellent coverage contributed to the 4 to 1 victory margin in the recent library building referendum. We especially appreciate the support given in your editorial published the day before the voting.

I well know from the many school referenda that Paddock Publications have reported and supported just how much of an impact your press coverage and editorial policy have on the voting public.

We feel that we have a good cause and a reasonable plan for a fine library. The next step is to have it constructed.

Again many thanks for your help and objective reporting.

'Education thrown out with McGuffey Readers'

A month or so ago, a Mount Prospect woman had a letter printed in the Fence Post questioning whether our schools are educating or indoctrinating our children. (Note: She was not a Birch — such as the you-pat-my-back-and-I'll-pat-your-synagogue.) Being an unindoctrinated dingo which I am supposed to be, I looked up the words in the dictionary, a pastime which I feel leads to some sound reasoning. Educate is (1) to provide schooling for, and (2) to develop mentally and morally especially by instruction. Indoctrinate is (1) to instruct especially in fundamentals or rudiments and (2) to imbue with a usual partisan or sectarian opinion, point of view or principle.

The lady's letter was appropriately timed to coincide with my annual September call-to-arms with the local educational institutions. An excellent example of indoctrination in lieu of education begins with religion. Ah-ha, but it's a law that religion cannot be taught in public schools since it might offend some God-forsaken atheist. So in order not to offend the atheists, the science classes, for instance, do not mention even the possibility of creation and the supporting catastrophism theory. Instead, the so-called "science" is limited to evolution, the practical atheist's answer to why he still resembles a monkey. The word "science" was composed by a man who had seances with men from other planets. I believe his name was Swedenborg and I can't remember if he called his little blue friends by name.

I'd like to point out that I am not advocating banning movies or that such as "Planet of the Apes" as some of them are entertaining. But that's all they are. This is not a double standard. When I was a new member in the John Birch Society I found a brochure at the American Opinion Library entitled "That Music" and thought at the time, "Boy, these Birchers are against everything." Then I read the brochure, used some of my rock records to test the simple theory stated therein and sure enough the Birchers were right again. Along with a soup to nuts assortment of music and near-music, I still enjoy these records, but now I understand why they are appealing. The above has been mentioned only to clarify that I don't advocate censorship of freedom of choice in movies, recordings or science. My objection is that all corridors of atheism are searched, at taxpayers expense, but the doors are barred shut to Christianity in far too many studies.

Is it merely by chance that the study of history must then, to satisfy the broad-minded atheist, avoid all discussion of such important phrases as 'with a firm reliance in 'Divine Providence' and endowed by our Creator? These phrases are not imbuing partisan or sectarian opinion, they are in fact, in the Declaration of Independence.

Now, you can sit back and amuse yourself in thinking the old Taylor dame has another bee in her bonnet or is off her rocker again. Do you want more concrete examples of indoctrination? Please consider the words inflation and discriminate. My daughter, Suzie, has been taught at school that inflation is a rise in the cost of living and to discriminate is to dislike someone because of race, creed or so on. Inflation is to increase the amount of money in circulation without a corresponding increase in goods. The rise in the cost of living is merely a result of inflation. Discriminate is to use good judgment, to distinguish or to differentiate. To dislike someone because of race, creed, etc. is prejudice. Suzie has been told that they aren't using these words "that way." If Webster was as powerful as Mother Nature, we would be experiencing a torrential rain and flooding at West Elementary School.

It is a wonder that the little darlings cannot span the generation gap, or is a portion of this difference of opinion based on the fact that our educational system is being converted into an indoctrination system? The communist definition of the word "educate" is "to indoctrinate in the principles of Marxism and the precepts of Marxism-Leninism." Marx's bible consisted of volumes of texts on evolutionary uniformitarianism such as we have in our schools.

One other problem which rattled my cage with this year's education was the first assignment brought home by my daughter. She was to study and report back to school regarding my likes, dislikes, habits and interests. Assuming that Suzie's personal opinion of her mother surely must be confidential, I was very tempted to tell her I was engaged in professional prostitution and loved every minute of my work, often bringing it home with me. I could imagine how quickly the Webster's definition would be passed along the grapevine and I decided it would not be wise or nice to fool Mother Nature. In view of my hostility on the subject, I requested that instead of studying my habits, Suzie's teacher should be the guinea pig. I felt then that the teacher could better evaluate whether Suzie's opinions were correct or not. Ever hear of a lead balloon? To discuss personal opinions of someone such as this is a clear example of sensitivity to this day I often wished Mom had had the recipe for it.

Wednesday, before Thanksgiving, bright and early Mom started her dinner preparations. I used to love to sit and listen to the cranberries pop. They seemed to make a rhythmic sound. It seemed just when I thought the last one had popped, a straggler popped to spoil the grand finale. Next came the time to make the pies, apple and mince meat. Dad, always liked his apple pie served warm, with a bit of cheese. He used to say, "Apple pie without cheese is like a kiss without a squeeze." Mom could make the longest, thinnest apple parings. I would straighten them out to see how long they would be without breaking them. I recall one year Mom used a heavy hand in doctoring the mince meat. That pie made the tears come to our eyes, and seemed to burn all the way down. Mom certainly had a bunch of "giggly" children shortly after eating that pie.

Thanksgiving morning we would bundle up and go to Mass. It seemed the very air was permeated with the aroma of baking turkeys. One Thanksgiving we children told Mom it wasn't a day we had to go to Mass, was it? Mass, being said in Latin at that time, the beauty was often lost on children. We would much rather stay at home and play. I'm glad we were disgruntled at the idea of going to Mass that morning, it left a lasting impression on me. Mother just looked at us, and I can recall her words to this day. Perhaps it wasn't just her words alone, but the quiet voice she used. "Children," she said, "When you arrive at church, start thanking God for all the wonderful things He has given you. I doubt that in the time you spend there you can tell Him even half the gifts you have received from Him." In all the years that have followed that particular Thanksgiving it wasn't the wonderful dinner, I recall, but Mom's words of wisdom.

A happy Thanksgiving to all.

'Food prices lost in shuffle'

With the headlines full of the fear of gas rationing, Watergate, and the troubles in the far east, something bothers me. Seems, the high food prices have been lost in the shuffle.

Have you noticed, chicken prices go down, hams go up, eggs go down, cheese goes up, beans go down, potatoes go up, etc., etc., etc. What is a hungry person to do? Most of us used to feed our families well on $50 per week. Now it costs a heck of a lot more, or we do without.

Thanksgiving was here and it happened again. Turkey prices were jacked up twice the price they were last year. Why, even raisins for stuffing have gone up or in some areas can not be had. To substitute our Christmas ham would be equally expensive. I am seriously thinking of putting a ham on layaway, so we can enjoy eating on Christmas Day. One thing for sure, the price of food may discourage many family holiday gatherings this year.

Perhaps you could enter a turkey raffle many big stores are offering. Maybe you'll be lucky and get a free gobble. With all these raffles and free give-a-ways going on, makes me wonder, who has all those extra dollars we average working families are putting out to feed our families daily. Another alternative for this year is to have a big neighborhood, family or friendly gathering, each one bring a dish and chip in $1 for the turkey. I hear they used to do that in the old days less the $1, grandma and grandpa donated that. You know, back in the days when a person could afford to eat.

Food for thought, isn't it???

Nixon editorial hit

The headline of your editorial Nov. 9, "When can Nixon be believed?" in my opinion was adding insult upon insult to our country, the United States of America, and to our President.

I think you, along with the rest of the anti-President Nixon group, and I also think we as Americans should get down on our knees and pray for our country and our President and the rest of our government leaders. I personally think we also should be trying to help some of our youth today on drugs and other serious problems they are having. They alone have no respect for anyone, let alone themselves.

You might read Romans 13:1 in the Living Bible. It reads as follows: "Obey the government, for God is the one that put it there. There is no government anywhere that God has not put in power. So those who refuse to obey the laws of the land are refusing to obey God, and punishment will follow."

I trust if you don't go along with some of my letter you will at least pay attention to praying to God and the verse from the Bible.

Halloween pranks hit

To be sure, toilet papering a tree is not such a horrible crime, but condoning it is. Children can't learn to respect property and other people if it is not taught at home.

We expect children to pull a few pranks, but how can they grow up with respect for others if they aren't taught that it is not right to have fun at the expense of others.

I think Rolling Meadows went a little too far, handing out coupons, but I'm all for no pranks. My children go out for the treats, as most children do. It's too bad some kids get their kicks out of making other people unhappy.

Have you ever taken toilet paper off your trees? It's no fun.

Timely quotes

There has been a misunderstanding in many respects about détente. There has been the idea that détente reflects an era of good feeling. We have always believed that détente is necessary precisely because we have opposing interests in many parts of the world. Détente is necessary because of the danger posed by the accumulation of nuclear weapons on both sides.

—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in a television interview with U.S. newsmen in Peking.

Our only consolation is that our political system is capable of bringing to justice those who betray trust in public office and who seem to think that politics is exempt from the requirements of morality.

—John Cardinal Krol, in an address to the nation's Roman Catholic bishops.

We now have an option we didn't have. It doesn't have to be you or me; it doesn't have to be yours or mine. It is possible to take care of all the needs of all the people at a higher standard than ever before.

—Dr. R. Buckminster, at a University of Pennsylvania panel in which he told the audience that a peaceful world is possible today for the first time in history.

Europe has become self-confident and independent enough to regard itself as an equal partner in this relationship, and it is as such that it must be accepted. Partnership cannot mean subordination.

—Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany, demanding that the U.S. treat the European Common Market as an equal partner.

Renewal of hostilities in the Middle East was received by the Chinese leadership with satisfaction. It anticipated aggravation of relations between the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A., and still continues to provoke both countries to such measures as would lead to confrontation between the two countries.

—From an article in New Times, the Soviet journal of international affairs, blaming China for fanning tensions in the Mideast.

'Let's honor literary figures'

The other day while I was waiting in the principal's office at the J. F. Cooper Junior High, I noticed a very fine picture of the school's namesake. Large gold sporting trophies and science plaques dwarfed the picture and it occurred to me that perhaps many of the students didn't know very much about James Fenimore Cooper. And, for that matter, what did our children who attended Louisa May Alcott, Joyce Kilmer or Walt Whitman Schools know about these great American writers.

With so much emphasis these days placed on science and sports, the power of the written word has been pushed far into the background.

Why not remedy this situation by setting aside a special day at each school in commemoration of these famous literary figures. Selections from their works could be read by the students and prizes awarded for original poems and essays.

By paying tribute to these important authors on a special day, our children's imaginations will be kindled and hopefully reading will become a part of their lives long after the school bells have stopped ringing.

Ecologists challenge the fur industry

by KAREN THOMPSON

Who should wear the stripes — the lady or the tiger?

Gina Lollabrigda has been known to don a tiger maxi-coat fashioned of about 10 skins or two per cent of all the tigers left in the world.

Basketball star Wilt Chamberlain bought up last year's crop of wolf pelts collected by bounty hunters in Alaska to use as covers for his two couches and as a rug and a bedspread.

Whether fur should be associated with crystal chandeliers and opulence or with animals and nature has turned into a very emotional, complex and controversial subject.

BEFORE BUYING a garment, especially if the fur comes from a wild animal, a person has more to consider than just his own appearance.

"People are being robbed of the right to encounter wild animals in their natural habitat," said Ann Fisher, an executive committee member of the Sierra Club.

The slaughter of wildlife in the name of fashion is the cause of much rationalization.

With the reduced prices for fur furs (squirrel, weasel, skunk, opossum, coyote and fox among others) and the campaign to sell the younger set on furs, the environmental groups are speaking out loudly.

"Fur sales are up and not likely to ebb, but we can at least demand that the fur business take stock of and amend its practices," says a Fund for Animals, Inc., pamphlet.

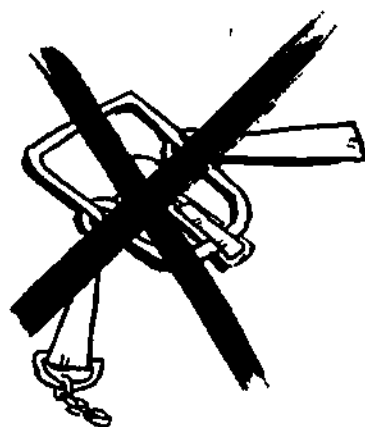

A Las Vegas federal wildlife official has estimated that more than 600 bald and golden eagles were killed accidentally by traps last winter in a few Nevada counties.

A white ermine is covered with blood, biting to its last breath to escape the trap.

"TO PRESERVE animals before they become endangered and to ban the use of the leg-hold trap are the most dire issues in the eyes of environmental groups such as the Sierra Club," according to Ann Fisher.

Which endangered species are currently being used and sold by the United States fur industry? According to fur industry reports, none.

"The U.S. practices the most stringent conservation of wildlife in the world. This has been made the official position of the U.S. fur industry by a labor-management contract negotiated in February 1972."

According to Lewis Regenstein, national director of the Fund for Animals, Inc., "The U.S. fur industry is still deeply involved in legal and illegal trade of threatened animals." In fact, according to the New York Times, on Feb. 21, 1973, Nathaniel Reed, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and Robert Morse, the U.S. attorney for the eastern district of New York, announced that they had discovered and broken up a major operation involving smuggling and trafficking in millions of dollars worth of pelts from endangered species.

One prominent New York fur dealer, Vegely-Forte, Inc., pleaded guilty to 50 criminal counts of illegal trade including 15,470 otter, 30,068 ocelot, 5,844 leopard, 1,939 jaguar, 468 puma, 46,181 margay, 1,867 cheetah and 217 giant otter skins, imported illegally from Brazil and Mexico. They faced fines totaling $500,000.

REGENSTEIN pointed out that the indictments include leaders in the fur industry in this country. "It should shatter once and for all the 'conservative' image the furriers are trying to cultivate. They have, in fact, played a major role in causing the near-extinction of various forms of wildlife; and by continuing to create demand for the skins, incentive for their illegal slaughter."

The popular question to ask is: Don't you eat meat and wear leather shoes?

This logic, put forth by the fur industry and rationalizing fur buyers, could be applied only to the ranch-bred furs such as mink, domestic rabbit, chinchilla, lamb, blue and silver fox which are raised like livestock and usually killed relatively quickly by gas or by a device that breaks their necks in an instant kill.

The steel leg-hold trap is of prime concern. It is a device, designed in 1923, to catch an animal and hold him imprisoned by means of iron teeth fastened to a leg or paw until the trapper checks his lines. An estimated 25,000,000 animals a year die in the leg-hold trap, not counting those that chew off their limbs and get away, in the United States and Canada alone — and the trap is totally unselective; whatever steps in it will be caught.

MOST FUR COAT buyers probably don't realize how many fur-bearers died in pain to make the garment. Two out of every three animals killed and maimed in the leg-hold trap are considered "trash," unwanted by the trapper and discarded.

There are approximately two million trappers in this country, according to the United States Department of Commerce.

Whether out of concern for the depletion of endangered species or for the pain and suffering inflicted on wild animals ensnared by leg-hold traps, people must reconsider the prestige value of fur garments.

To fight back against the strong ecology movement and the fake fur producers, who have both gnawed at fur profits along with the shortages of manpower and materials, the Foundation for Environmental Education (FEE), was formed. The fur industry calls this group "a completely independent entity dedicated to research grants, support of conservation techniques, harvesting methods and wildlife management."

REGENSTEIN CONTENTS, however, "the FEE is somewhat different from other ecology groups around the country: it was created and is being financed (on a tax-deductible basis) with the help and generosity of the U.S. fur industry which has traditionally been one of the prime exploiters of endangered species and other wildlife. It appears to speak for conservation, while at the same time serving the industry interests."

In mid-1972 a strategy meeting was held and a New York public relations firm hired to blanch the fur industry's blackened image.

With statements like "the American fur industry is now one of the nation's leaders in animal conservation," armed with ammunition kits complete with tips on influencing fashion editors and elementary school teachers and displaying membership in the FEE, they launched a large-scale counter-attack.

WHERE DOES THE U.S. fur industry stand regarding animal conservation? According to industry literature they "believe in farming crops to their best advantage. If treated properly and the true principles of wildlife management and conservation are applied, there won't be endangered species."

Hunting and trapping are the reason many species became endangered in the first place, and if all animals used by the fur industry were farmed, they could be rightfully called "conservationists."

The fur industry claims it has a big stake in perpetuating all wild animals and that 80 per cent of their fur is raised on ranches. Why then, Regenstein questions, "in late 1968 did the fur industry succeed in squelching a Congressional law to protect endangered species and in 1969 manage to have the same law watered down and crippled with amendments — The Endangered Species Act of 1969?"

THE ACT FORBIDS the importation and use of any animal threatened with worldwide extinction.

It is illegal to sell or offer for sale 24 species of furbearing animals including tiger, cheetah, vicuña, red wolf, polar bear, three kinds of leopard, mountain lion, jaguar, ocelot and margay. The International Union for the Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources charts the status of all species of animals. Its findings are published in the Red Data Book which is, supposedly, continually updated.

"The Interior Department's policy has traditionally been to add an animal to its endangered list only after its future survival has become doubtful," according to Regenstein.

"With most of the spotted cats approaching the biological point of no return, the U.S. Department of Interior belatedly added them to the endangered list in March, 1972," he said.

"OUR COUNTRY'S" wolf population exclusive of Alaska is practically extinct, with less than 100 remaining in the wild outside Texas and Minnesota, which together contain less than 1,000," said a Fund for Animals publication.

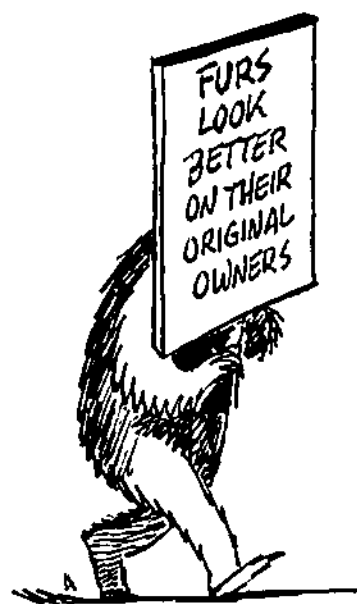

Sable is being wiped out to satisfy fur needs, says the publication, noting also that it takes 12 baby ocelots to make a coat, 10 lynx, 25 opossums, up to 40 raccoons.

What is being done about the tragic situation? Little.

Legislation to ban the sale of furs and leather products from states or nations which do not outlaw the leg-hold traps. Current bills are being sponsored by Senator Birch Bayh and U.S. Rep. Broomfield.

LEGISLATION is also pending in Congress to strengthen the Endangered Species

Fake furs no answer

With the emphasis on economy and ecology, many customers are turning to fake furs as an alternative to the real thing.

The picture looks bleak here too. By 1972 synthetics consumed 10 per cent of the petroleum in the United States. Today, in the U.S. alone, the man-made fiber industry produces more than seven billion pounds of fiber annually, increasing at a rate of 17 per cent a year.

This incredible volume of synthetic fibers is consuming precious fossil fuel resources.

Oil can heat homes and gasoline operate cars. But at the present rate of consumption and with the likelihood of fuel rationing, can they keep autos moving and clothe people as well?

In the face of the energy crunch, the alternative suggested is natural fibers such as cotton, flax, silk and wool. Nature's very own fibers, ecologists note, are grown by nature and reabsorbed into nature's cycle without resulting in pollution or pain and torture.

Lights out at the garage sale

Early Thursday I got a frantic call from a lady I know who lives in our subdivision a couple of blocks away from us.

"I don't know if you heard I'm having a garage sale today," she said urgently, "but there are people lined up in cars up and down the street waiting for me to put up the garage door and begin selling. I can't start, though, without your lamp."

I told her I would rush it right over. By the time I got there, the people were beginning to murmur about the sale starting so late. As soon as my friend saw me she threw up the garage door and offered me a prominent place to put the lamp.

"I'M SO RELIEVED you're here. It wouldn't be a neighborhood garage sale without your lamp!"

"I know. I think it has been in 71, but I'm not sure. Now I wish I had kept track," I mused.

"How much are you going to ask for it?" she asked as she rang up the sale of three plastic cups and four saucers.

"I don't know. I had it up for $2 at Florie's sale two weeks ago. She got an offer of 75 cents but turned it down."

"Why?" my friend asked in amazement.

"She said she didn't like the woman's attitude. Apparently Florie countered the 75 cent offer with $1 and the woman replied that she could get any number of lamps like that in Barrington for 35 cents."

"Then what happened?"

"Florie told her to go ahead and try."

"I can't imagine there are any lamps like that . . . anywhere."

I HAD TO AGREE as I looked objectively at the lamp. It was much too tall for today's table styles, but not tall enough to stand alone on a faded turquoise and the once matching fake shantung shade was permanently dented from an indoor exhibition football game several years ago.

"I'm going to ask $1.50 for it," I announced with sudden resolve. Then I wrote up a price tag: "Precious lamp — $1.50."

About an hour later one of my neighbors called with the news that someone had bought my lamp.

"Was it my husband?" I had to explain to her that he had threatened to buy it just so he could throw it out.

"No, it was an auctioneer. He didn't even try to flicker over the price!"

For a while I felt sad about the loss of a good luck token for our local garage sale. However, as my husband pointed out, my knowing who bought it gives me the comforting knowledge that if I really want to, I can buy it back.

Today's clothes: fit for all seasons

PERFECT CLIMATE — spanning after-five look in separates.

The seasonal ritual of clearing out summer's clothes to make room for your fall and winter wardrobe may become an obsolete detail.

Each season it seems that fewer and fewer of my clothes must be laid away as synthetics such as nylon and polyester populate my closet in place of seasonal fabrics.

When shopping keep this in mind. It's a sensible way to combine fashion and economy. With a smaller, overall clothes budget, you will have a larger selection of clothes because no outfit has an off-season.

In an interview with Women's Wear Daily recently, Halston, a top New York designer, said, "Women want clothes that have a long life. They want fewer clothes and things to wear for several different seasons."

"THAT GOES FOR customers right in the board — the richest women in the world are now very practical," Halston added.

With the mobility of today's society, clothes must be versatile enough to travel from the equator to Aspen, Colo., or from an air conditioned hotel to a pool-side party.

The major consideration is the fabric. Jerseys, knits, rayon, crepe and Ultra-

Fashion

by Karen

suede fit into wardrobes from season to season and climate to climate. The two-piece outfit, especially the bare styles with an overblouse, are perfect for the you-never-know style of '73 living.

The spring outfits, the fall coat and closets of out-of-action clothing are outdated, time-wasting and expensive customs gone forever with the new styles. Your clothes never need to languish in out-of-season storage again.

Men are more quality conscious than women, the Wool Bureau, Inc., reports. In general, the bureau said, women are too prone to equate quality with price and too eager to look for a bargain. The exception is food where women are more knowledgeable about quality, but in clothing, the Wool Bureau said, the men understand quality better than women and insist on it.

Little City designs own cards

A church, snowman, partridge, or two children with a sled are the choices available to persons ordering their Christmas cards from the Suburban Service League of Little City.

Each year Little City students design Christmas cards, and four are selected by the League to be sold to the public.

This Christmas marks the eighth consecutive year for this project.

Proceeds will benefit the training, treatment and research center for the mentally handicapped. Little City is located on Route 62, Palatine.

Cards can be ordered by calling 359-6510. A box of 25 cards sells for $5. Printing is extra.

Next on the agenda

DUNTON QUESTERS

"More Valuable, or Value-less," the appreciation and/or depreciation of antiques, will be the subject of Tuesday's program for Dunton Chapter of Questers. The group meets at 9:30 a.m. at Mrs. Hugh Weid's home, 623 S. Pine, Arlington Heights, with Mrs. John Parker as co-hostess.

The program will be given by Mrs. M. L. Shepherd of Four Groves Chapter of Questers.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS BOOK REVIEW CLUB

The next meeting of Prospect Heights Book Review Club is Wednesday at 8 a.m. at Old Orchard Country Club, Mount Prospect. A continental breakfast will be served, after which Mrs. Ruth Pearsall will review a new novel, "I'll Tell Them I Remember You" by William Peter Blatty.

Cancellations and guest reservations are due today with Mrs. Max Lyle, 293-1754.

PALATINE BOOK REVIEW

The Palatine Book Review Club meets Tuesday at Uncle Andy's Cow Palace, Palatine. A review of "Burr" by Gore Vidal will follow a 12:15 luncheon. The reviewer is Mrs. Allen Hopkins of Mount Prospect.

WHEELING GARDEN CLUB

A workshop is next for Wheeling Garden Club. It takes place Tuesday at Jack London Junior High School at 7:30 p.m., when members will be making Christmas straw wreaths.

Hostesses will be Mrs. Young Snodgrass and Mrs. James Werba.

Guests are invited. They may call Mrs. Snodgrass, 341-4724, for further information.

DES PLAINES JUNIORS

The Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday at West Park fieldhouse.

The program will feature Thomas Jauck, clinical psychologist and director of the Northwest Human Resources and Development Center, Rolling Meadows. He will speak on the "State of the Family."

Hostesses are Mrs. Fred Shreck and Mrs. Jack Schneider.

LA LECHE LEAGUE

Mrs. Terry Sosterhenn, 1337 Elgin, Schaumburg, will be hostess Tuesday at 8 p.m. to the Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates group of the LaLeche League. Topic for the meeting is "The Baby Arrives: the Family and the Breastfed Baby," with Mrs. David Spielberg leading the discussion.

Getting ready for the baby, simplifying meals, schedules around the house, and helping the children understand the baby's needs will all be covered in the lesson.

Books and printed materials on the subject will be available. Further details can be obtained by calling 882-0297 or 884-0635.

MT. PROSPECT NEWCOMERS

The popular decorative art of terrarium creation will be studied by Mount Prospect Newcomers Club on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the local community center, 600 See-Grun.

Nancy Johnson, guest speaker, will show how to make a bottle terrarium, displaying some in various stages of development to indicate steps involved. Sheets giving instructions and recommended material sources will be available, and completed terrariums will be on sale. Newcomers to the community are welcome.

Mrs. William Stanley, 253-6862, or Mrs. Jon Dokmo 856-0814, have details.

ALPHA PHI

The November meeting of Alpha Phi alumnae is Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Mrs. Kent Bradley's home in Palatine. The evening includes a Christmas cookie and recipe exchange.

Alpha Phi alumnae interested may call Mrs. Bradley at 359-3514.

ALPHA DELTA PI

Alpha Delta Pi alumnae are getting ready for the holiday season with an hors d'oeuvres demonstration. Patricia Slavik, gourmet cooking instructor, will present ideas for entertaining, providing samples of all the foods to be served.

The program is Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Roger Flick, 724 Bel Aire, Palatine. Interested alumnae are welcome and can call Mrs. Flick at 359-6092 for details. Her co-hostess will be Mrs. Richard Aplan.

ELK GROVE HOMEMAKERS

A lesson on "New Household Cleaners" will be given for Elk Grove Unit of the Homemakers Extension Association on Wednesday at Mrs. A. Juhnke's home, 717 S. Chestnut, Arlington Heights. The gathering begins at 10 a.m. with a bake sale sponsored by the TNT 4-H group.

Extension adviser Mrs. S. McCann will cover the various types of soil and how to remove them, types of cleaning agents, care of floor surfaces and furniture, and the safe use of all products.

Mrs. J. Oltrogge and Mrs. I. Scharringhausen will serve coffee and cake after the meeting.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN

The Women's Association of the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights meets Wednesday, with the Rev. Howard Peckenpaugh leading a program on "School for Prayer."

The morning session is from 9 to 11:30. A light lunch will be served prior to the afternoon session from 1 to 2:30.

Christmas music program Dec. 3

"The Lights and Highlights of Christmas," a musical program featuring Lois Eve Anderson and Melody Lord, will be presented for the Women's Club of Inverness. The meeting will be held Monday, Dec. 3 at noon in the Inverness Community House. This is the Annual Past Presidents Day, at which past presidents are honored guests.

Miss Anderson is a member of the voice faculty at Trinity College, Deerfield; she has international singing experience. Miss Lord is first pianist with the Chicago Civic Orchestra and a member of the Chicago Symphony Chorus. Lois Eve and Melody will entertain the club with Christmas music through solo duet and piano numbers.

A Wassail bowl and light refreshments will precede the program. Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Albert Beal, Mrs. Robert Wessberg, Mrs. Eric Rydin, Mrs. Robert Jaeger. Reservations may be made by calling 359-5817 by this Friday.

Birth notes

NORTHWEST COMMUNITY

Timothy Michael Gawne was a Nov. 16 arrival for Mr. and Mrs. James F. Gawne, 4 Leon Lane, Prospect Heights. Other children in the family are James, 16, Mary Lynn, 15, and Thomas, 10. Grandparents of the 6 pound 11 ounce baby are Mr. and Mrs. Fred R. Gawne, Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Sheridan, Palatine.

LaBanschnig

The engagement of JoAnn Marie LaBanschnig to Matthew E. Jaskiewicz of Mount Prospect is announced by her parents, the Edward LaBanschnigs of Arlington Heights. A May 25 wedding is planned.

Matthew is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Jaskiewicz.

Both JoAnn and her fiancé are graduates of Forest View High School and work for Littlefuse, Inc., Des Plaines.

Debra
Beck

Mr. and Mrs. Archie G. Beck, Des Plaines, announce the engagement of their daughter, Debra Lee, to Lynn Ball, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Ball, Roseville, Ill.

The couple met at Illinois Wesleyan University where Lynn will graduate this year with a degree in sociology.

A Sept. 7, 1974, wedding at the Des Plaines Congregational Church is planned.

Rebecca
Davis

A Dec. 27 wedding is planned by Rebecca Jean Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Burt Davis of 2101 Vermont St., Rolling Meadows, and her fiancé, Danny Thomas Shoemaker of Water Valley, Miss. They will be married in Our Lady of Lourdes Church, Pass Christian, Miss.

The bride-to-be graduated from Fremd High School and attends the University of Mississippi. Danny, son of the Samuel Chester Shoemakers, also attends the university where both will graduate next May.

Victoria
Sartorius

Recent graduates of Schaumburg High School, Victoria Sartorius and Robert F. Hommoun are engaged but have not yet set a wedding date. Both are now attending Western Illinois University.

Victoria is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mario Sartorius, now of Danville, Calif., and Robert's parents are the William Hommouns of Hanover Park.

Bride Lynnda Dietz walks same aisle as grandmother

Lynnda Susan Dietz of Prospect Heights walked the same church aisle on her wedding day as her paternal grandmother did many years ago.

At that time, her grandmother was the first bride married in St. Mary's Catholic Church of Buffalo Grove, where the ceremony was repeated Oct. 27 for another generation of the family.

Lynnda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Dietz of 100 Elaine Circle East, became the bride of James Craig Dudzik of Palatine in an 11 a.m. double ring service.

She wore a gown of ivory sate peau with Venice lace edging the neck and cuffs of the long, full sleeves. The princess styled dress was complemented by an ivory elbow-length veil trimmed with the same lace and held by a cap of lace studded with seed pearls.

LYNDA'S BOUQUET was composed of multi-colored silk flowers along with fresh red roses, daisies, asters and baby's breath.

For "something old and borrowed" she wore her mother's wedding garter.

The bridegroom, son of the Chester F. Dudziks, 895 E. Schirra, Palatine, chose John Scheer of El Paso, Ill., as best man. Chris Antonio, Peoria, and Jeff Dietz, the bride's brother, ushered.

Judi Dietz was her sister's maid of honor, while another sister, Lisa, was bridesmaid along with Cathy Dudzik, sister of the groom.

THE THREE GIRLS wore light blue satin dresses accented with ivory satin collar and cuffs. They carried ivory rosebuds, blue and white daisies and baby's breath.

The bride and groom are now living in Wauconda after returning from a honeymoon in San Francisco.

They met this past year at Illinois State University, Normal, where both graduated in June. Lynnda is a graduate of Sacred Heart of Mary High School; Jim graduated from St. Viator High.

They both work in the area, the bride in the executive office of Golden Bear Restaurants, Inc., Mount Prospect, and the groom for John L. Armitage & Co., Elk Grove.

Charcoal used by humans but only on doc's say-so

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that activated charcoal granules are being recommended for human beings? Is this the same kind of activated charcoal you've been writing about? — Mrs. Henry Albermarle

Technically, it's the same thing — but these are tablets or capsules, not granules. They work like magnets, attracting molecules of gas and so on. As you may know, activated charcoal is kept in most poison control centers as the universal antidote, and more and more it is being used in general treatment (but on doctor's advice — not on the word of people like me). Maybe the crowd at the Columbia University pharmacy school felt an urgent need to do some testing, but some experiments there indicate charcoal is also highly useful in treating hangover symptoms.

Dear Dorothy: Maybe others have had the same trouble I've had — how to get the cover off orange juice concentrate cans after the strips have been pulled off. Suddenly, light. I gently squeeze the cardboard sides and the cover, just as gently, becomes dislodged and pops up. — Christine Erlanger

The homeline

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: When I was teaching a few years ago, we used liquid starch for finger paint. We poured a little onto the paper and added powdered tempera which worked in as the child would spread the paint around. — Diane Peterson

Dear Dorothy: Notice readers have been having trouble with odors developing in their garbage disposers. I find that using a stiff brush — up and down under the top disk — will keep odors from developing. — Marian Osterman.

Cataract surgery varies with patient

A lot of us with cataracts would like to hear something about this new operation. I think they use ultrasound to vibrate out the cataract. Is this better than the old methods?

The lens is normally clear and composed of soft gelatinous material that can change its shape readily. The shape is changed by the contraction of a ring of muscles around the outer edge of the lens-like lens.

As the clear lens material gets cloudy you can no longer see through it. The area of opacification may be small or grow to include the entire lens. In older persons the cataract is often hard and rigid. In younger people it may be soft and pliable.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

There are a number of problems with cataract surgery. The lens is encased in a capsule membrane. Immediately behind the lens is the large chamber of the eyeball, and it is full of a jelly-like material called the vitreous.

THE PART of the capsule behind the lens is the front partition or wall that keeps this material from leaking out to the front of the eye. In younger people the lens capsule is attached to the jelly-like material. Surgeons like to leave the capsule in place and not have to tear the lens loose.

To avoid problems in younger patients the surgeon makes a tiny incision about one eighth inch long. With special instruments he carefully removes the capsule layer in front of the lens material. He may need to irrigate the area to help wash out the smaller pieces.

It is not possible to suck out the hard cataract material in older persons. By that time the vitreous jelly-like material is less well attached to the capsule on the back side of the lens. Commonly an incision nearly an inch long is made and the whole lens structure with its front and back capsule is slipped out.

THERE SEEMS to be some advantages in avoiding the larger incision needed to slip out the intact hard lens. The large incision causes greater distortion of the outer eye leading to more astigmatism and other problems.

The combined technique using a small incision, ultrasonics and irrigation, which doesn't require the more complicated computer technique of replacing fluid in the lens space, will probably become more common. A decision on which of these techniques to use has to be individualized for the patient.

Forest preserves offer winter fun

Snow and ice will bring winter fun to the Cook County Forest Preserves this year for persons who enjoy tobogganing, skiing, ice skating, snowmobiling and ice fishing.

George Dunne, president of the forest preserve district board, said there are at least 74 locations in the district for enjoyment of these five sports. Tobogganing can be done at seven sites, snowmobiling at eight, sledding at 14, skating at 22 locations and ice fishing in 17 areas.

Drives and parking areas in the preserves will be open daily this winter at sports sites from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. From Dec. 1 to March 1, drives and parking areas in all non-sports areas will be closed to auto and truck traffic. The districts' four nature centers will be open all winter, and have separate schedules. Persons may walk or hike in all preserves daily between sunrise and 11 p.m.

But remember our deadlines...

For a detailed wedding story (including gown descriptions and a listing of attendants) pick up a wedding information form at any of The Herald offices and return the completed form to The Herald within three weeks following the wedding. A brief story will be published for forms received after three weeks and up to five.

Include a 5x7 black and white glossy close-up photo (bouquet and up) of the bridal pair or of the bride alone. Color photos will be used at the discretion of the editor. Sorry, no small snapshots.

The wedding write-up is a free service of the Herald.

Choose a photo for The Herald immediately upon receiving photographer's proofs. To avoid delay, have the photographer make the selection.

Write-up without a photo will be published providing the information is received prior to the deadline.

AND ABOUT ENGAGEMENTS:

Print or type the information (include your phone number) or fill out one of the forms available at The Herald offices. Bring the information along with wallet-size glossy photo, to The Herald office in Arlington Heights or mail to Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006. Larger photos are acceptable. Dull finish photos are often usable, but glossies are preferred. Color photos will be used at the discretion of the editor.

Photos accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes will be returned.

Elk Grove captures holiday cage title

The Elk Grove football team took the Mid-Suburban League South Division by surprise last fall. Will the basketball bunch do the same?

It won't happen if the Grenadiers of Coach Bill Parmentier continue playing as they did last week at the Lake Park Thanksgiving Holiday Tournament. They won it!

Despite having only Ken Pollitz as a returning letterman, the Grove found out that his ability as well as some steadiness by non-veterans was more than enough, thank you. After polishing off Addison Trail on Thanksgiving eve, 61-46, the Grenadiers rolled past Glenbrook South on Friday (50-38) and Lake Park on Saturday (62-49) for the round robin title.

Pollitz, a 6-foot-5, 223-pound forward, had scoring nights of 25, 21 and 26 for a whopping 73-point three-game series. If there had been an all-tourney most valuable player, he would have easily won.

"I've never seen such a physical game," said Parmentier of the Saturday banger that saw 61 fouls called. "We lost Pollitz late in the third quarter. I don't know how in the heck we hung on without him, but we did."

The big guy exited with eight of 13 from the field, 10 free throws and 14 rebounds. But the quick Grenadiers stayed together with the help of guard

Jim Hammers. He finished with 14 points, hitting eight of nine free throws.

"It would have been very easy to have let this one slip away," said Parmentier of the finale with the host school. "They just kept coming at us."

The Grenadiers widened a halftime lead of 35-25 to 48-34 at the end of three quarters with the winners holding on going down the stretch.

"They're a great bunch of hustlers," praised Parmentier. "As long as they keep hustling, they're never going to get embarrassed on the floor."

"The competition wasn't bad. It was good for us. We needed the games."

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Elk Grove ..... 15 20 13 14-62
Lake Park ..... 10 15 9 15-49

Elk Grove had its moments in the Friday night affair. After jumping off to a 31-17 first half lead ("we didn't give them a field goal in the second quarter"), the Grenadiers suffered through a four-point third quarter. However, the Titans only had eight.

As was the case in all three games, the Grenadiers were the shorter team. "I think everybody will be taller (this year)," said the Grove coach. "But we outboarded them 34-27."

Steve Carson shared rebounding honors with Pollitz Friday with 11. He also contributed eight points. He contributed 11 points on Saturday.

Don Weadley and Jeff Smith also had good nights against the Titans with some clutch baskets late in the game.

"The defense did a helluva job," said Parmentier. "It's a key part of our ball games. Right now we're doing a really good job. We got 20 baskets (Friday). I think half of the baskets came off the defense."

Last year's team was also a small, hustler type. It finished with the school's best record — 15-8. Although Parmentier has a young team, it's learning fast. "They saw how it paid off for those guys (last year)," he added.

SCORE BY QUARTERS

Elk Grove ..... 12 19 4 15-50
Glenbrook South ..... 10 7 8 13-38

Arlington cruises past Maine West

Touted Cardinals sharp in opener

The scoreboard read: Visitors 58 — Home 43, but it was never that much in doubt as Arlington blew off Maine West last Friday evening in the Warriors' gymnasium.

George Zigman's Cardinals, with Dan Donahue (19), Jeff Cleveland (16) and Dennis Gaare (10) in double point figures, walked to a 1-0 record.

Paced by Doug Myers' 16 points, five field goals coming in the last period against Arlington subs, Maine dropped to 0-2. The Warriors had lost their opener to Forest View.

It was almost too easy for the Cardinals. They opened with a pressure defense, forced 10 Warrior turnovers in five minutes, built 14-2 and 20-4 leads, then settled for a 20-8 margin after one period.

Actually, the Cardinals could have been close to 30 points after eight minutes. "We missed some easy layups (four), also missed some pitches," said Zigman. "Of course, Gaston's (Freeman) kids also missed some pitches that could have put them in the ballgame."

The 6-foot-10 Donahue's 14 points and 10 by Cleveland jumped Arlington to a 29-15 halftime lead. Cleveland had eight field goals; Donahue's 19 points came on seven field goals and five free throws.

Maine scored more points during the last period — 22 — than it had managed during the opening three periods. Most of those came against Arlington subs; the Cards had a 54-25 lead with 5:22 remaining.

Donahue was easily the early difference maker with his 14 pre-halftime points. When Maine had six points, they were all by Myers who didn't score again until 3:12 remained. Myers, West's 6-8 center, hit four field goals after Donahue fouled out.

Hidden in a smaller limelight were Arlington guards Steve Loughman and Jerry DeSimone. They totalled only seven points, Loughman getting five. But the pair penetrated Maine's "defense" with little trouble.

"I was impressed with their guards," Freeman said later. "It was very obvious."

The game featured 46 fouls and 40

turnovers. West led in both categories with 25 fouls and 24 turnovers. Maine converted 3-of-18 free throws; Arlington sank 14-of-25.

"Last year, we had nothing coming back except Bob Bunn and it couldn't've been a long year but these kids came on to win the division," said Zigman who returns a large cast from that championship team.

"Now, we're quicker than a year ago. I don't know what you think, but Donahue has really improved with more mobility and confidence."

"The key to our season is these first three games on the road," Zigman said. "If we can get a good start, we could be tough." The Cards face Forest View and Wheeling next.

Arlington's other scorers were Doug Betters four points and Rick Drake two.

John Clark had 10 for Maine West. He didn't appear until the second quarter, then played well enough to earn a spot at starting forward. Other Maine points were by John O'Connor five, Heiden and Jim Olsen four apiece, Glen Dalbke and Steve Zuccarini two apiece.

Area has rough time in Glenbard tourney

Fremd and Hersey combined for only one victory in five starts over a grueling schedule in the first annual Glenbard West Tournament over the weekend, the lone triumph recorded by Fremd when the two Mid-Suburban representatives met in the loser's bracket, 65-56.

The Vikings, outsize in every contest, got a vote of confidence when Randy Weber was selected to the elite five-man All-Tournament squad.

Hersey, meanwhile, obviously missed 6-foot-11 center Dave Corzine who has been recovering from injuries sustained in an automobile accident and has still not dressed for any of the Huskies' four games.

VIKES OUTGUNNED

Fremd was forced to open against eventual tourney champ Proviso East which quickly shoved the Vikings into the loser's bracket, 76-62.

Despite Weber's 21 points and 20 more by Doug Mize, Fremd fell behind by nine after the first quarter, 21-12 and seven more by halftime, 42-23, before outscoring Proviso in the second half, 36-34.

"We didn't pull down a rebound during the entire second period," Fremd head coach Leon Kasuboske moaned. The Vikings pulled within eight in the fourth period, but the game-high 22 points by Proviso's Joe Ponsetto kept them at bay.

HUSKIES DERAILED

Hersey quickly joined Fremd in the consolation bracket as Glenbard East played a near-flawless game and conquered, 68-45. The Huskies aided Glenbard by committing 28 fouls which the Hilltoppers converted into 26-for-36 from the free throw line.

Despite a 35-24 advantage in the rebounding department, Hersey turned the ball over 25 times as compared to only six for Glenbard. Bill Selter paced the Huskies in scoring with 10 points while Rich Hammesfahr and soph Clyde Glass added eight apiece.

VIKINGS TIP HUSKIES

In the head-to-head battle between MSL members, Fremd out-scored Hersey in every quarter to post a 65-56 triumph. The Vikings' inside-shuffle offense and edge in experience paid dividends as Weber fired in 23, Bob Frank 17 and Mize 14.

Hersey was again plagued by 25 turnovers, mostly forced by Fremd's effective three-quarter court press and wound up on the short end of the Vikes' 29-27 edge in rebounding. Huskie Tim Conard had a fine shooting game as he captured scoring honors with 25 points. Glass chipped in with 10.

WILLOWBROOK RALLIES

Fremd came within eight seconds of recording its second straight tourney victory, but Willowbrook scored five points in the final 20 seconds for a 50-49 verdict.

With the Vikings leading 49-45, Willowbrook stole an inbound pass, cashed a foul shot and controlled an important tip in the waning seconds to pull the victory out.

It was still a game effort by Fremd which fell way behind in the opening stages, 19-2, but kept nibbling away until it knotted the score in the middle of the fourth period.

It was the Vikings' second game of the day within a seven-hour span while Willowbrook was playing its first. "I thought we played well considering the circumstances," Kasuboske said.

FAST BREAK HURTS HUSKIES

Hersey picked its final appearance in the tourney for its coldest shooting game and dropped a 61-45 decision to Willowbrook.

The Huskies were unable to convert jumpers from six to 10 feet with any consistency and although trailing by only five at the half, fell victim to Willowbrook's decisive 21-11 outburst in the third quarter.

"We penetrated too deeply," Hersey coach Roger Steingraber admitted while watching Willowbrook beat his Huskies down the court for easy layups. "They were a physical team, but quick, too."

Conard paced Hersey's scoring again with a dozen points, but after going winless in the tourney, Steingraber seemed more pleased to learn that Corzine may be able to join the team for practice as soon as Wednesday.

Wrestlers busy but few bright spots for area

A St. Viator victory over Wauconda was one of the few bright spots along the local wrestling trail last week as most teams opened their campaigns.

The young Lions trimmed Wauconda 43-15 in their bid to win the Rolling Meadows Invitational with a pair of back-to-back wins but Elk Grove came out a 39-17 victim to Addison Trail and Forest View fell to Maine South 33-12 in other openers.

Maine West dumped Prospect 48-12 in another dual clash and Hersoy turned back Maine East 36-15. Details on the Huskie-Demon hookup and other action over the long Thanksgiving will be covered in tomorrow's Herald.

Coach John Ellis and his Mustangs inaugurated their slate with a 35-18 romp past visiting Glenbard East and came back the next day to sink hosting Barrington 27-22. Double winners for the Mustangs included all five leadoff grapplers starting with Jim Carlson at 98 who posted a third-round pin and a 9-3 decision.

At 105 Craig Dahlquist collected 13-4 and 8-4 decisions and Paul Hyneman at 112 gained a dozen team points with a pin and a forfeit win. Roy Carlstrom at 119 logged a pin and a shutout while Roger Mattox at 126 earned two tight verdicts on points.

Other winners over Glenbard were Jim Harrington (167) and Bob Newell (185), both by fall. Versus the Broncos Larry Johnson (145) and Rick Whitfield (heavyweight) helped out the cause.

John Zid's youthful Viator group picked up four forfeit wins to help out their cause and lone vet Tim Marwitz won handily at 119. Further boosts were received at 105 by John Butler, 126 by Chris Traxler, 133 by Mark Galbraith, 167 by John Breen and 185 by Mark Kristy.

Breen worked to a second-round pin in his encounter.

Maine West also had the help of four forfeits in their triumph over the Knights. At 112 Warrior Bryan Real earned a second round pin, at 126 Dave Oravec of Prospect won 4-2, at 138 Gary Brenner of Maine gained a 9-0 shutout, at 145 Prospect's Randy Cherwin won 5-0, at 153 Paul Berner of the Warriors netted a second round pin, at 167 Roger Herrera of Maine won by fall in the opening stanza and at 185 Steve Emil of the Knights pinned at 4:56.

The Falcons netted only three wins and a tie against the visiting Hawks. John Gross of the hosts led off with a crushing 18-0 conquest but the View did not gain any more points until Rich Acosta won 15-10 at 132 and Dennis Beach drew at 130. Acosta was down 9-1 before he rallied for his win.

At the heavyweight end of the lineup the Falcons collected their last win, 6-2, via Mike Petran.

The Grenadiers also salvaged just three victories and a tie at Addison Trail.

Kevin Cruz at 105 and Rick Morris at 132 both notched pins and Pete Gianaris at 138 was involved in a 1-1 standoff. Earl Jurisch collected a 7-4 nod for the visitors in the heavyweight finale.

Maine North forfeited four weight classes and opened with a 35-20 loss to Warren. They outscored Warren, 20-15, in actual match points wrestled off.

Jack Beal (105) and Bob Russon (119) were pin winners for Maine. Mike Schumacher (155) and Bob Kelley (185) won decisions. Doug Anderson (132) tied.

During practice last week, Joe Fuggitt dislocated an elbow and will not compete this year. He is a senior.

Harper falls to DuPage; collects runnerup trophy

The College of DuPage invited the guests to the party, then walked away with the biggest prize.

In the DuPage Invitational held last weekend, the Harper Hawks were up against the hosts for the championship.

The DuPage Chaparrals won the final game, 66-54, taking the Invitational and giving the Hawks a second-place trophy.

In order to get to the final game held on Saturday night, the Hawks had to beat Waubesa on Friday night, which they did 78-69.

In the Waubesa game the Hawks staged a comeback. Down by as much as 11 points at one time in the first half, the Hawks ate away at the lead. By halftime, Waubesa led by only four points, 32-28.

"We played a lot better in the second half," said Hawk coach Roger Bechtold. "About five minutes into the second half, we opened up a lead of about six or seven points."

After this, the contest was a back-and-forth conclusion for both teams, with the Hawks eventually winning the game by nine points.

DuPage beat their Lake County opponents in the second game on Friday night to set up the deciding game.

In the Waubesa game, Hawk forward Chuck Neary had 18 points to lead the Harper scoring attack.

Steve Heldt had 14 points for the Hawks, followed by Mike Millner, who had 13.

"We didn't play very well in the first game," said Bechtold. "We had too many turnovers (12) in the game."

Nevertheless, the Hawks won, but didn't fare as well against DuPage.

The Chaps' final 12-point victory margin could be traced back to the middle of the first half.

At 10:33 in the opening half, Chap forward Mike Buckmaster winged a Hawk and came up with the ball. He then took his stolen merchandise and scored the easy layup.

These two points gave the Chaps an 18-14 lead, but they weren't through. They scored eight more points in a row to lead 26-14 with 7:50 left in the first half.

The Hawks then scored six straight points to pull within six points of the Chaps, 26-20, at 5:54 in the half.

The Chaps scored four more before Hawk center Dave Schmitt put in two baskets pulling the Hawks within six points again.

The only time the Hawks came within 10 points of the Chaps from this position came at 14:31 in the second half when Schmitt connected on a five-foot jumper.

"I'd say DuPage is one of the best junior college teams in the state," said Bechtold. "They have four returning starters back from last year's team."

For the third straight game the Hawks played an even, or better, second half with their opponents. In one case, they won the game. In the other two, they lost.

In the DuPage game, the Hawks were down by 13 points at the end of the first half, 39-26. At the end of the game they were down by 12, outscoring the Chaps 28-27 in the second half.

The first half has been coming back to haunt the Hawks.

Heldt, with 19 points, was the only other Hawk to break into double figures.

The Hawks play two home games this weekend. Thursday night they play host to Thornton, and Saturday night they battle Lake County.

All Hawks home games will be played at St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights this year.

Andriano heading to bowl

One of the nation's top small college football pass receivers closes out his career Saturday, Dec. 1, when Millikin University of Decatur, Ill. plays in the Boot Hill Bowl in Dodge City, Kan.

Chris Andriano of Palatine now holds all but one of Millikin's pass receiving records and is one of the principal reasons why Millikin is involved in its first post-season competition in the University's 70-year history. When football drills open next August, Andriano will not be around for the first time in four years and Skip Mathieson, Millikin's head football coach, will miss the Palatine ace.

All Andriano did this year was make the College Conference of Illinois-Wisconsin all-conference football team and was a repeat selection on the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) District 20 team. His statistics reflect only a part of Andriano's help. His leadership ability is the other tangible that is not reflected in his statistics.

He caught 50 passes for 676 yards and nine touchdowns this fall with one game left and two of those nine touchdowns won games for the Big Blue. With 17 seconds left against North Park, Andriano caught a 17-yard pass from Jim Ralston for the touchdown that gave Millikin a 42-41 victory. One week later against Carroll College, Andriano caught another 17-yard touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter to give the Big Blue a 14-7 victory.

For his career Andriano has caught 118 passes for 1,938 yards and 20 touchdowns. His freshman year (1970) he caught three passes for 41 yards and one touchdown, his sophomore year he caught 31 passes for 629 yards and four touchdowns and last year he caught 34 for 612 yards and six touchdowns.

Following is a list of Andriano's records: most pass receptions in a career 118, most pass receptions in a season 50, most pass receptions in a game 9, most yards gained pass receiving in a career 1,938, most yards gained pass receiving in a season 676, most yards gained pass receiving in a game 142, most touchdown passes caught in a career 20, and most touchdown passes caught in a season 9. The only record he does not hold is most touchdown passes in a single game which is three and Andriano has caught two in several games.

At Striker Lanes

Sue Petersen had a 695-250, 226 scratch to highlight the Cambridge Countryside Mixed League at Buffalo Grove's Striker Lanes. Barb Sullivan had a 650 series while Glenna Ledebach notched a 625 with a top game of 240. Trudy Freeland rolled a 248 game.

Tex Texley had a 695-254, followed by Howie Ledebach's 695-251, 695 scratch. Dick Nelson had a 687-244. The No-Sols remained in first place.

At Fair Lanes

Robert Green recorded a 563-200 series to highlight play in the Palatine Majors League at the Fair Lanes in Rolling Meadows. Other top series and games were William Hodge, 553-202, Dick Stone, 546-238, Al Miller, 561-213, and Frank Dreyer, 553-210. Jim Carrier had a 645-210 while Robert Greenlee added a 573-223. Garth Barrett tallied a 549-199 and Ron Probst had a 553-200.

Conant, Buffalo Grove register non-league triumphs

CONANT WINS AGAIN
Dave Sutherland's shooting and Roger Sander's rebounding paced Conant to their second victory of the season at New Trier West Friday evening.

The final verdict was 63-52 in favor of the Cougars but it really wasn't that close. Dick Redlinger's visiting band thoroughly controlled the boards and maintained a 10-14 point lead through most of the contest.

"We looked good in spells but there were still a lot of lapses," sighed Redlinger afterwards. "We committed a lot of needless fouls and shot very poorly from the free throw line."

Had everything jelled, Conant might have walked away from the Cougars as they did against Fenton in their season lifter two days earlier, 88-38. As it was, they had to come from behind once before assuming a permanent lead late in the first quarter.

New Trier led 9-4 with 2:45 to go in the opening stanza on a three-point play by their 6-4 ace Gunnar Thors. Ten seconds later Tom Bowen plunked in a 10-footer for the visitors and he followed it up half a minute later with one from 15-feet out. Sutherland then hit on a turnaround jumper and clicked again on a rebound with two seconds to go, putting the Cougars up 16-9 at the quarter.

Conant built their lead slowly up past 10 points and then nurtured it until the last half minute of the game when NTW moved momentarily within nine.

Sutherland finished with 22 tallies, Bowen had 13 and Steve Irion collected 12 for the winners while Sander had nine points and swept off 14 rebounds. High point man for the hosts was Thors with 16.

BISON CAPTURE DEBUT
Buffalo Grove shook off an early 13-point deficit and went on to post a dramatic 59-56 victory in their opening cage contest at Wheaton-Warrenville Friday night.

Jeff Schuster fired in the winning bucket, a 15-foot kicker, with little more than a minute to go in the extra session. It capped a long comeback for the Bison after trailing 16-5 at the end of the first session.

"The game was kind of spotty for both sides," Grove pilot Paul Grady commented afterwards. "I think the brightest mark for our kids was that they didn't lose their composure after falling behind so far so early in the game."

Grady's bunch pulled within two of the hosts, 28-26 at halftime and knotted things up at the three-quarter mark. "We had things pretty much in control after that ... leading by two most of the way ... but we couldn't break it open."

With a couple of seconds remaining in regulation time and everything even at 53-53, Warrenville missed a long shot that would have put them over the top.

In overtime it was 56-55 when Jeff Schuster connected and less than a minute later older brother Barry plunked in a free throw to ice things up.

Dave Smithern was top scorer for the guests with 18 while Brian Allsmiller chipped in 11, Tom Stonerook 10 and Tim Stonerook eight in the winning cause. Allsmiller and Tom Stonerook also paced their club with 11 and 10 rebounds respectively and the Grove took a 35-25 edge in this department.

FALCONS DERAILED
The Forest View Falcons made a game comeback Friday night, but fell short, losing to the visiting Elgin Maroons, 71-65.

"We missed some free throws that would have put us right there," Falcon coach Ted Wissen said. "Our scoring was balanced and we almost pulled it off."

The Maroons had a clear advantage in height and utilized it to pull into a 35-28 halftime lead. They continued to chip away at the Falcons in the third quarter and led 55-42 at the fourth stanza tipoff.

That's when the Falcons went to work.

A tight press enabled the hosts to silence the lead to six. Kurt Haaland keyed the Forest View rally, dumping in 10 points down the stretch. Elgin went to a ball control offense, though, and held on for the victory.

Haaland was top scorer in the struggle with 23 points. Teammate Larry Monroe had 18, followed by Mike Meyer with 12. Mark Russo threw in six, John Kronfort three, and Don Stevens two for the losers. Craig Brinkman's free throw rounded out Falcon tallying.

INDIANS AMBUSH KNIGHTS
New Trier East, last year's runnerup state champion, reeled off 11 unanswered points early in the third quarter and tripped Prospect, 72-58.

The Knights, despite four juniors in the starting lineup, played the highly-regarded Indians even through the first half, trailing just 35-34 at the intermission. Talented 6-1 Prospect forward Al Black hit 15 points over the first 16 minutes to help erase a 19-16 first-quarter Knight deficit.

But New Trier returnees 6-foot-7 Frank Moran (20 points) and 6-foot-9 Chris Wall (16), sparked the Indians with an 11-point uprising in the third stanza and later put the game under wraps with a six-point spurt late in the fourth quarter.

Black emerged as the game's leading scorer with 21 points while teammates Doug Bonthron contributed 11, Paul Withe 10 and both guards Jim Anderson and Mike Quade eight apiece.

The Indians maintained a 36-28 advantage in the rebounding department with Wall hauling down 13, 6-foot-5 Tom Uriell eight and Moran seven. Withe paced Prospect on the boards with 10 rebounds while Bonthron added seven.

Prospect's young squad, although winless this season in three starts, has played opponents that combined for a 53-21 record last year. "We're gaining experience, but we're learning the hard way," Prospect head coach Bill Slayton said. "We've seen some pretty good teams so far."

PALATINE BLITZED, 91-66

"We were never in the thing," said Ron Finkrock of the shell shocking his Palatine team absorbed Saturday night at Glenbrook North.

The Pirates fell behind 20-7 and ended up losing 91-66 to the quick, full court press slapped on by the Spartans.

"They were the best shooting ball club I've seen up here," said Finkrock, who began coaching in the area several years ago. "They shot way over 50 per cent."

Scott Cole led the team with 20 points. Buddy Hughes and Mark Mara chipped in with 14 and 11, respectively.

"The only bright spot was the fact that we got all 12 players into the game," said Finkrock. "I think we'll come around."

He termed the play of Steve Haley, a reserve senior, as a "boy who has a lot of potential."

The Pirates are now 1-1, having won their opener on Thanksgiving Eve in two overtimes against Maine East, 62-52.

Meadows gets by St. Viator, 60-55

Rolling Meadows fought off a tough press Saturday night and hung on to beat the taller St. Viator Lions 60-55 in a thriller at the visitors' court.

The Mustangs relied on speed from their front line to get the ball past the Lion defenders. Two key Rolling Meadows' turnovers were nullified late in the game by fouls to seal the Lions' fate.

Both teams came out running, particularly in period two. In that quarter the Mustangs outscored the Lions 24-23, but still trailed at the half, 37-31.

The Mustangs rallied in the third stanza and tied the game at 37-all midway through the eight minutes. A variety of long jumpers and fast breaks by the two squads made the ledger read 47-11 at the conclusion of the period.

A pair of jumpers by John Hogan and one by Steve Breitbeil were answered by a lone St. Viator basket to open the fourth quarter. Terry Keehan, Bill Foreman, and Glen Girard sparked a Lion comeback that closed the gap to 58-55 with one minute left.

Paul Kastner stole the ball for St. Viator directly underneath his own basket and scored, but the tally was cancelled because he was fouled before he shot. His free throw was too long, the Mustangs rebounded, and Scott Green scored with 15 seconds remaining to ice the game.

Foreman led the Lions in scoring with 22 points, 16 coming in the first half. Keehan added 14 for St. Viator. Hogan tossed in 15 for Rolling Meadows, followed by Breitbeil's dozen.

Larson sparks Demons to third place

Keith Larson drilled 16 of his 24 points during the second half Saturday night as Maine East upset Morton West, 65-50, for third place in the York Turkey Classic.

Playing all but four minutes at guard, Larson converted 10-of-18 field goal attempts and four-of-five during the final quarter when he had 10 points.

"Larson played tonight like the dominating force that he can be to a game," said Maine head coach Paul McClelland.

It was the first victory for Maine which had lost its Friday night Turkey Classic opener, 80-55, to Oak Park. Larson was East's top scorer in that game with 13 points. Mark Berns had nine points and Mark Mahoney eight.

That game was a disaster. "The second quarter, Oak Park blew us out with a man-to-man pressure defense," said McClelland. "We didn't adjust. They got us on the run and it was all over."

But it was a different story on Saturday when the Blue Demons came back after losses to Niles East, Palatine and Oak Park. "You wonder if you'll ever get that first win," McClelland said. "We finally did. It'll really help the kids' confidence."

Morton West led, 23-22, at halftime. Maine East's Mahoney made his first appearance during the third quarter and finished with 11 points. Berns had 13, seven during the fourth period when the Demons had their finest quarter of the young season with 27 points.

Morton managed only 11 and 16-point quarters after intermission while the Demons had 43 points. "They didn't get very many shots off. Our diamond-and-one fullcourt press forced a lot of turnovers," said McClelland.

"We went to a 1-3-1 zone once they got through. It forced them to take terrible shots from the outside if they even got a shot."

"Mahoney stole the ball twice in the fourth quarter and fed Larson for two and three-point plays," McClelland said. "He stole it later and fed (Mike) Cohen for a three-point play."

The Demons led in rebounding, 24-16, and were paced by Cohen's seven. Lou Massong and Ron Parker had five apiece. Berns got four, Larson two and Neil Clark one.

Maine converted 9-of-15 free throws and outscored Morton, 28-19, in field goals. East's other scorers were Cohen nine points, Massong six and Parker two.

The Demons play at Waukegan on Friday night. They'll begin Central Suburban play the following weekend with a Friday, Dec. 7, home game against Maine North.

Seminar tomorrow at Hoffman Estates on college sports

A seminar discussing the ins-and-outs of college athletics will be held for all Dist. 211 athletes and their parents at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, in the Hoffman Estates gymnasium or auditorium.

Head football coach Bill Gourley and gym coach Bill Spalletto will discuss scholarships, national letters-of-intent and other matters important to high school boys interested in college athletics.

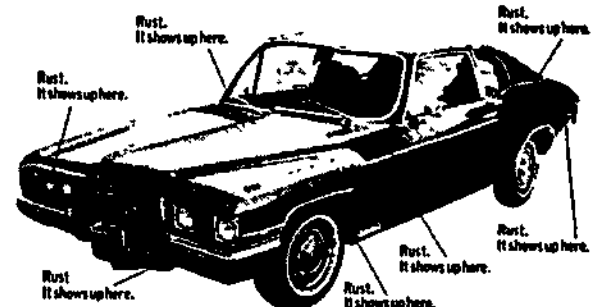

Gourley was head football coach at North Park College and Spalletto spent five years as head gymnastics coach at Northern Illinois University.

Athletes from Hoffman Estates, Conant, Schaumburg, Palatine and Fremd high schools are welcome.

What does every new car have in common? Rust.

Rust. It can show up on every new car. Including this year's lineup.

Because no new car—foreign or domestic—is rustproofed at the factory. And undercoating and ordinary rustproofing don't do a complete job either.

If you want to keep rust from showing up on your new car, show up at Ziebart. We cover every inch of rust-prone metal with our unique sealant. To make your car really rust-proof, and worth more when you trade it in.

The Ziebart process is so good that we'll guarantee your new car against rust-through for 5 years or 50,000 miles.

The Ziebart process is available only through an authorized Ziebart dealer. That's us.

Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrell E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 108,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 15,903 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to candidate:

Terrell Clark — 108,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,003

Carl Hansen — 88,023
Joe Woods — 77,618
Hal Tyrell — 76,344
Ron Larson — 62,156

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maine Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,349 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tecson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Chamber to protest Dundee Road delay to legislators

The Buffalo Grove Chamber of Commerce will send letters to Gov. Daniel Walker and several state legislators protesting "the lack of progress" in the widening and repaving of Dundee Road.

Daniel Potter, president of the group said yesterday the condition of the road is not only dangerous, but also is creating a hardship for many area businesses.

Due to the construction, Potter said many businesses have been forced to close driveways leading to Dundee Road. The closed driveways limit access to the establishments and hurts business, he said.

Potter said he fears if construction is not expedited, the road will be left in its present condition until spring. The Chamber is hopeful Walker and the legislators will put pressure on the state and contractor of the project to get at least two lanes paved before winter.

STATE OFFICIALS have said most of the delays are due to a cement shortage. Workmen began paving about two weeks ago, but were stopped for almost a week when cement supplies ran out.

Work resumed last week, but state officials said it would continue only if cement can be obtained. The project consists of widening 16,000 feet of Dundee Road to four lanes between Elmhurst Road and Ill. Rte. 53, through Wheeling, Arlington Heights and Buffalo Grove.

Albert Sifrer, project engineer for the Illinois Division of Highways said the cement shortage and the time of year make it questionable whether two lanes will be finished by winter.

State officials are attempting to obtain cement from a variety of suppliers, he said. At this time of year, however, he said there could be weather problems which could prevent workers from pouring the concrete.

IF THE CEMENT good, he said workers and the weather remains good, he said workmen can pave about 1,500 feet of road a day. Workmen began paving west from Elmhurst Road and were planning to be to Buffalo Grove Road by today, he said.

Last week the Buffalo Grove Village Board passed a resolution asking that two lanes of the road be completed by Dec. 1. In passing the resolution, board members said completing two lanes would at least partially eliminate some of the present traffic hazards.

Since construction began, the road has been the scene of numerous auto accidents. At least one man has been killed on that stretch of the road.

Interviewing for public works director completed

Buffalo Grove has finished interviewing applicants and will reach a decision within three weeks on who will be hired as its new public works director, according to Village Mgr. Daniel Larson.

The person will be hired to replace William Davis, current director. Davis will remain with public works as head foreman.

Larson last week said village officials have interviewed about 30 applicants for the job and have narrowed the field to three, but refused to disclose their names.

The village at this time is checking the references and backgrounds of the three applicants. The new director is expected to begin work the first or second week in January, Larson said.

Larson said the decision to seek a new public works director was made at Davis' request. He emphasized that the move should not be considered as a demotion for Davis. Davis has done an excellent job in his four years in the post, he added.

SINCE DAVIS became director, Larson said the village has undergone substantial growth. With that growth, he said, the public works department has also expanded. "The only reason a new director is being hired is because the village feels it needs a person with very strong administrative ability in that position."

A person with more of an administrative background than Davis is needed, he said, because of the additional personnel working in the department and the additional duties that come with a larger village population.

Larson said that Davis, when he becomes head foreman, will still perform many of the duties he was performing as director. In addition, Davis will work closely with the new director to coordinate the activities of the department, Larson said.

Among Davis' duties as head foreman will be to assign and schedule work crews and equipment, suggest public works improvements that should be undertaken by the village, study and recommend the purchase of new equipment and represent the village at public works seminars.

The new director will be in charge of setting department policies, budget preparation, hiring and firing of personnel, as well as overseeing the entire operation of the department.

THE PERSON chosen for the job, Larson said, will have engineering job, Larson said, will have engineering tasks of the public works department.

Beth Judea meeting set

The Sisterhood of Congregation Beth Judea will have its monthly meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Kingswood Methodist Church in Buffalo Grove. The church is located on Dundee Road between Golfview Terrace and Crofton Lane.

Guest speaker will be The Herald's Consumerism writer, Monica Wilch. She will discuss toy safety, government consumer standards and consumer problems in general.

Following the meeting members and guests will be able to visit the Congregation Beth Judea Gift store and purchase items for Hanukkah. The store will have similar items on display in the Buffalo Grove Mall on Friday, Dec. 7, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The next day all paid up members of the Sisterhood and their husbands are invited to attend a session with the internationally famous ESP expert Irene Hughes. The session will begin at 8:15 p.m. at the Kingswood Methodist Church and will cost $4 per couple or $2 per person.

Beautician to give tips at charm school

A local beautician will give tips on hair care at the second session of the Buffalo Grove Jaycees-sponsored charm school tonight.

Sandra Vartan, a resident of Buffalo Grove, will speak about hairstyling and demonstrate hair care techniques.

The class is scheduled for girls in the fifth through 12th grades and will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. in the all-purpose room of Alcott School, 530 Bernard Dr.

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLE

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "sky-rocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 25 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

Train rider gives thanks—for life

by JERRY THOMAS

"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducked down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passengers on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1192 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

Killed in the collision were Dena H. Jordan, 40, of 760 Walnut St., Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurisse, 56, of 632 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurisse, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

Another passenger, Michael Troops, 17, of 200 Norman Nelson, Elgin, suffered cuts around his eyes in the crash but did not require stitches. He was resting in bed at home soon after the collision. "He told me the first thing he knew he was on the floor and then trying to get out," said his father.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All the injured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

"We have no witnesses, but you could have stood on top of that intersection and seen nothing, because of the fog" said the policeman. "The sheared off gate arms make us believe the lights and arms were down and working."

127-year-old landmark

Community rallying to save Long Grove Church

by JILL BETTNER

Rekindling the spirit of the first German settlers who plied in with hearts and hands to build the Long Grove Church back in 1848, the present congregation is rallying to save the community landmark.

The simple white-frame New England meetinghouse has stood near the covered bridge on the edge of the tiny village since the time only sprawling farms showed on the horizon.

It has remained, withstanding the exodus of many farmers who left the area during World War II. Through hard times in the early 1930s, when membership was dangerously low and the church was without a minister, it continued to exist.

THE CHURCH is still there, practically a remnant of the past, now that much of the rolling countryside surrounding it has been replaced by suburban tri-levels, quadro-homes and apartments.

Although a few of the descendants of the first families who erected the church still are members, the real strength of the church now lies in a new breed of settler, the suburbanite, who perhaps isn't really so different from his ancestors.

The spark of whatever it is that moved the early members of the church and the congregations following to build and preserve the church is still alive in the present congregation.

They have joined in a determined effort to see the church through the latest crisis that threatens its continued existence.

The crisis is the decaying roof of the structure that must be entirely replaced, a job estimated to cost nearly $7,000. The budget of the small church can't meet the need, so the members have taken on the responsibility of raising the money themselves.

They're conducting raffles, giving parties and asking for donations from others interested in preserving the 127-year-old landmark.

IMPRESSED with the fund-raising effort, a local Long Grove businessman is helping out by employing members of the church choir to sing Christmas carols outside his store during the holiday season.

The choir began caroling in front of Mangel Florists yesterday and planned to sing again today and several weekends before Christmas.

As their share in the project to obtain money for the roof repairs, Chuck and Jackie Pipher are planning a "Raise the Roof" party next Friday evening at their Kildeer home.

Mrs. Pipher said donations are being asked of the expected 110 guests.

Commenting on the couple's reason for taking the time and trouble to plan the party, Mrs. Pipher said, "We love that church. It's a landmark and none of us want to see it go, it's just that simple. If the roof isn't repaired, slowly but surely it will go."

Anyone else wanting to contribute to the roof repair fund should contact Michael Paull, minister of the Long Grove Church at 634-3635.

Lake County college area may get Stevenson High

Adlai Stevenson High School Dist. 125, Prairie View, will probably be assigned next month to the College of Lake County Junior College District by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

Dist. 125 is not a part of any junior college district.

The Dist. 125 Board of Education has decided not to oppose the assignment to the College of Lake County district.

A study conducted by school officials shows that the number of junior college students in Dist. 125 is about equally divided between those who attend College of Lake County and Harper Junior College in Palatine.

The majority of school board members have said they favor joining the College of Lake County district because the school is closer for most residents.

SCHOOL BOARD Pres. Robert Anderson said the curriculum of the College of Lake County is also better suited to Dist. 125 students. He added that there are indications that the school would probably construct a second campus in the Stevenson High School area if the district is annexed.

Even after Dist. 125 is assigned to the College of Lake County junior college district by the State Board of Education, residents may vote to withdraw from the district by conducting a special election.

If 50 local voters petition for a referendum to disannex from the junior college district and the referendum is successful, Dist. 125 would again become a nonjunior college district. This would mean that Stevenson students would continue paying out-of-district tuition fees to state junior colleges.

CURRENTLY, DIST. 125 levies less than five cents per $100 of assessed valuation to pay the out-of-district tuition for residents who attend state junior colleges. According to Anderson, if the assessed valuation of the district continues to climb at the present rate, the district could afford to absorb the expense for the next few years.

If voters choose to accept the assignment to the College of Lake County district, the junior college district would make a separate levy of about 18 to 18 cents per $100 of assessed valuation. Stevenson High School would no longer be involved financially.

Wheeling man dead after car-bike crash

A 20-year-old Wheeling man died Saturday at Holy Family Hospital in Des Plaines from injuries he suffered Friday when his motorcycle struck a car on River Road, south of Foundry Road, near Mount Prospect.

State police said Robert L. Schulte, of 823 MacIntosh Rd., Wheeling, was injured at 10:33 p.m. Friday when his motorcycle hit a car that was waiting to make a left turn. Both vehicles were southbound on River Road when the accident occurred, police said.

The driver of the car, Katherine Bartlett, 21, of Brookline, Wis., and a passenger were treated for minor injuries at the hospital. No charges have been filed.

Chicago water rate increase battle looms with suburbs

More than 30 suburban officials will meet tomorrow to consider means of averting future Chicago water rate increases affecting their communities.

The primary purpose of the meeting is to "organize some body that will negotiate with Chicago on future water rate increases," according to Niles Mayor Nicholas Blase.

Recent rate increases, which boosted Chicago water prices more than 34 per cent, will affect Des Plaines, Niles and 70 other towns which purchase water from Chicago. City Comptroller Duane Blizet will be representing Des Plaines at the meeting, which will be at the VFW hall, 6635 Milwaukee Ave., in Niles.

Blase, who organized the meeting of municipal officials, said the group will be "looking at our overall relationship with Chicago."

"Chicago is unwilling to deal with us singularly," he said. "I think we'd be more effective approaching them as one body rather than one community diddling in there."

BLASE IS seeking a change in the ordinance which requires municipalities purchasing large amounts of water to pay the same price as individual Chicago homeowners.

The Niles mayor notes that water demand in the suburbs is increasing yearly while the demand in Chicago has remained static.

"It seems to me the time has come to examine our water purchase position," Blase said. "We have to study the equities of the situation and the possible alternatives."

Blase hopes to pressure the Chicago Sanitary District into selling water to municipalities at a wholesale price.

"I think the person buying a million chickens should get a better price than the person buying only one. Obviously, the person buying the greatest volume should pay less," he said.

Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel has said the Chicago increase will definitely force an increase in local rates.

"We cannot continue to absorb increasing costs," he said. Behrel added that the city had planned to increase the rates soon because of rising costs.

A RECENT six-month report of water revenues for the city shows that Des Plaines has lost about $160,000. The loss was attributed to lower water use and increasing rates.

The city purchases about 60 per cent of its water from Chicago. A long-term contract allows Des Plaines to obtain an average of seven million gallons a day from Chicago. The water supply is supplemented by several local wells.

Des Plaines pays Chicago about 27.5 cents per 1,000 gallons of water. Behrel said Des Plaines charges residents about 63 cents per 1,000 gallons. The difference in price results from the city's cost in providing water lines, pumping stations and personnel, he said.

Mikva: Young stand on Nixon confusing

Former Congressman Abner J. Mikva urged his opponent for the 10th District congressional seat to tell the voters whether he does or does not support President Richard Nixon and his policies.

Speaking before campaign supporters Saturday as he began his petition drive,

Mikva, an Evanston Democrat, said Rep. Samuel Young has issued "confusing and conflicting" statements on Nixon. He asked Young "once and for all, in plain English" to define his position, saying, "10th District voters deserve to know where Young really stands."

YOUNG, who defeated Mikva in a heated race in 1972, campaigned then as a Nixon Republican. He began his 1973 campaign Nov. 2 by criticizing Nixon and calling himself "an independent Republican," according to Mikva.

"One newspaper headlined Young's announcement statements as being a break with Nixon. Young also urged legislation to allow appointment of a truly independent Watergate prosecutor. He said Nixon's handling of Watergate has been 'a mess from start to finish,'" Mikva said.

Mikva added that six days later Young urged strong support for the president, praised his programs and complimented Nixon on his appointment of "a White House-controlled special prosecutor."

Mikva further charged that Young brought in Gen. Alexander Haig, Nixon's Chief of Staff, to join him in a "great whitewash effort." Haig spoke at a fundraising dinner for Young earlier this month.

Mobiles or modulars— which will it be for city?

by STEVE BROWN
A news analysis

Mobile or modular.

That has been the question that the Des Plaines City Council has debated repeatedly in recent weeks.

The debate was sparked by the sudden appearance of two half houses on a lot at the corner of Greco and Morse streets on the city's southeast side.

Almost before the trailer, on which the house was being carried, was unhitched, residents in the neighborhood were calling their aldermen to complain.

THEY SAID the building did not meet city codes. They suggested the house was hazardous, and while they did not say it out loud, they probably felt the "ugly duckling" would cause their property values to drop.

But after all the ruckus, the house passed the city inspection and turned into somewhat of a handsome prince. Some city councilmen still voiced concern.

While Ald. Carmen Sario's (8th) attempt to have a moratorium on further construction failed, at least one council committee will study building code guidelines for any more construction similar to the house on Greco Street.

ALTHOUGH LOCAL mobile homes dealers refused to comment, industry officials from various facets of the modular housing industry seem to be divided over what type of factory-assembled housing is the best.

Industry spokesmen generally agree if the house has permanent wheels, it is a mobile home, but if it is placed on a permanent foundation, it is a sectional home.

Wheels or not, the construction is still

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLER

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "sky-rocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 26 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

THE CONTROVERSIAL prefabricated house on Greco Street, which went up in early October, is now near completion. Neighbors have complained the home does not meet building codes while quietly worrying about the effect it will have on their property values. City officials are studying the issue.

Mobiles or modulars—which will it be?

similar and while national codes are improving standards, the modular homes have a much shorter life expectancy than the more conventional "stick" house.

Proponents of the so-called "panelized construction" — houses built on the site with factory assembled walls and other components — believe that they have a better product.

"We have no trouble bringing wall sections to a site and assembling there. There are few design limitations, and options — like attached garages — are available," said a spokesman for a Wisconsin company which deals in panelized houses.

PRICES for the sectionalized units range from $12,500 to $45,000, with the bottom end of the price list being comparable to other forms of modular housing.

Travel damage is one of the biggest negative factors that builders of sectional houses cited.

While men like Rick Harroun of the Mobile Homes Manufacturers Association stress factory-assembled homes are high quality, they admit there is a certain amount of pounding the units get while in transit.

Depending on the integrity of the firm handling the transportation and the installation, damages may be completely corrected or only partly repaired.

"We feel the vast majority of the mobile homes are of better quality than conventional housing," said MHMA's Henry Omson, who supervises the association's technical division.

"Today's mobile homes are built directly to standard with rigid supervision, that just does not exist with other homes," he added.

WHILE CONVENTIONAL "stick" houses are facing continually rising prices, one of the chief attractions of modular homes is lower prices.

Furnished "12 wide" units with typical dimensions of 12 feet by 60 feet, are priced at $7,000, and double wide — the forefather of the house on Greco Avenue usually run less than $20,000. These prices do not include the cost of land.

It is clear with rising prices, people are looking for cheaper housing. Lower priced single-family homes in the future will more than likely be of the same variety as the house which caused the controversy in Des Plaines.

UNLESS A community plans to outlaw the units altogether it will find itself with an increasing number of the modular homes being installed.

Citizen protest, propelled by concerns for their own property values, will also continue. Industry officials indicate that some criticism might not be unwarranted.

While suggestions on dealing with the situation seem to be limited, one official did suggest local communities might devise more stringent requirements for extensive landscaping to help the modular units better blend into the surrounding neighborhood.

"This would help relieve the more 'boxy' appearance on the typical modular home for the present. I expect design will soon take care of that problem," one official said.

Park board urges ice rink study

The Des Plaines Park Board has called for a study on the feasibility of an indoor ice rink for the city.

The study would be geared to helping park commissioners determine if Des Plaines residents favor construction of the facility. The project would be financed through revenue bonds if approved, according to Park and Recreation director Robert Kunkel.

The proposed rink would be intended largely for public skating. Kunkel said residents using the rink would pay admission, possibly in a manner similar to season-pass plans in effect at park district swimming pools.

He said, however, that only a "minority" of the facilities use would be for park district hockey and figure skating programs.

Des Plaines hockey programs currently are being held at rink facilities in Niles.

KUNKEL WAS uncertain where the proposed rink would be built but said one possibility would be to build it near a high school in Des Plaines.

Kunkel also said park officials are uncertain how much money will be spent on the project but added commissioners will use the results of the study to help determine the amount.

"It's a board decision on how much money will be spent," he said. "It depends on what they want."

According to Kunkel, the park officials in Highland Park spent $650,000 on an indoor rink while the Skokie Park District rink was built at a cost of $1,300,000.

Park officials are expected to select a firm to conduct the study at a meeting Dec. 3.

Officials explore program for gifted

Board members had requested information on such a program from district administrators. This type of program is on a list, officially adopted by the board, which suggests possible program additions next year.

The presentation was made by Al Waltman, assistant superintendent for personnel, who was involved in a program for the gifted which the district had in the early 60s, and Erwin Stevenson, assistant superintendent for instruction.

Waltman presented areas of the program the board should be especially concerned with, such as the selection of staff, evaluation of the program, how eligible children for the program might be selected and whether participants should be isolated from the rest of the children.

Further discussion of the program was tentatively set for the latter half of the board's long-range financial planning committee meeting, 7:30 p.m. Monday at the administrative center. Board members will also have to consider how much money will be spent on the program.

Junior high bonds approved

The sale of bonds for remodeling work at Dempster and Grove Junior high schools was approved by the school board. The board adopted a resolution authorizing the board secretary to solicit bids for $125,000 school building bonds to be opened Dec. 3 at 1 p.m. at the office of Paul Speer and Associates, the district's financial consultants.

The sale of the bonds was authorized by district voters in a referendum earlier this year. Major remodeling work is expected to start at the two schools this spring.

Summer school director OK'd

Phillip Thornton was officially reappointed to the post of Dist. 59 summer school director. Thornton, who is principal at Lively Junior High, finished his first year as summer school director in the district last year. His salary was set at $2,500 for the summer session.

The board officially approved a contract between Dist. 59 and High School Dist. 214. The contract is for the use of Elk Grove High School facilities for Grove Junior High graduation this June.

Consumers worried about economy, but keep buying

A Herald staff report

Consumers are worried about the economy, but at the same time are trying to keep it from spoiling their plans for a merry Christmas, a spot check of weekend holiday shoppers indicates.

A few people polled said they probably would buy fewer gifts this year than last. Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

But most said they were going ahead with holiday purchases in the hope that things won't get too bad.

"I'M A LITTLE uncertain about the economy, yes . . . but not for Christmas," explained Carol Smith of Prospect Heights who was shopping Friday at the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

This weekend marked the opening of the Christmas shopping season, and thousands of gift buyers jammed the malls at Woodfield and Randhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquale of Schaumburg said they at least try to start looking the day after Thanksgiving. The Pasquales say they are hoping to spend less.

Merchants are banking that 1973 will be a record sales year. More stores and more items, they say, should keep the Christmas cash registers ringing.

A RANDOM sample turned up visiting shoppers at Woodfield from Detroit, Philadelphia, Toledo, Phoenix, Milwaukee, Macomb, Moline, Decatur and Quincy. Most were area family guests filling out a long Thanksgiving weekend.

But some shoppers said they plan to do their gift selecting closer to home this year.

"I won't leave Barrington unless I have to for something," said Wendy Lageschulte. "I am watching prices and plan on making a lot of things myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hefferman said they usually do their Christmas shopping in Arlington Heights and this year don't think the energy crisis will really change their buying habits.

"I won't let it affect my Christmas shopping," said Dorris Nichols of Mount Prospect. "I do try to help by turning off lights at home and putting down the heat a little," she said.

ELDERLY PEOPLE on fixed incomes have long been among consumers most sensitive to rising prices.

"We just can't afford to buy fancy gifts anymore," said a retired couple shopping for wrapping paper in downtown Palatine. The woman said she still wanted to exchange presents with family and friends, but this year would bake or make gifts in order to save money.

"High prices do cut the Christmas spirit because you can't afford to spend as much as you would like to," said a Mount Prospect mother of six who was out doing some "regular" shopping at Randhurst.

Many other shoppers, though, echoed the words of an 18-year-old Park Ridge girl who said, "I'm not cutting down — not on Christmas."

WHILE SHOPPERS may be wary of an economic recession brought on by energy shortages this winter, most apparently are reluctant, at least at this point, to let it dampen their holiday spirits.

As one man put it, "I think we're going to be in trouble. I'm just hoping it doesn't hit before February or March."

The local scene

Young children use 'Y'

Every child likes to run and jump, climb ropes and roll on the ground. So what better place than at the Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. Two thru five year olds have fun learning to make their bodies do what their mind says. The classes are divided into two age groups. Wee Folks two through four years and Tiny tots four through five years. There is a separate class for children going to kindergarten.

Classes meet once a week for a half-hour. The children use all the equipment in the gym. Music is used to start class and for various types of warm-up exercises including body-image and movement with rhythm.

Five receive degrees

Five Des Plaines residents completed undergraduate and graduate degree requirements during the recent summer quarter at Western Illinois University.

Receiving degrees were: Clayton L. Strom, 1075 Woodlawn; James Graves, 2289 Scott St.; John Grimes, 1697 Morse Ave.; Carolyn Hummel, 1081 Stockton; and Gerald Kaminski, 1378 Carol Ln.

Young position on Nixon asked

explanation of Young's sudden switch. One reason may be the influence of financier W. Clement Stone, Mikva noted.

Mikva referred to a newspaper account of Young's fund-raising dinner which quoted Stone as saying "from now on Young had better back the President a little more. I think most people in the district feel this way and I think he will do so."

Mikva said Young probably has "10,000 good reasons for following Stone's advice." Stone contributed $10,000 to Young's 1972 campaign.

"The public deserves a candidate who is willing to have a position he can advocate," Mikva said.

"I THINK Young should say what he means and mean what he says. He shouldn't say one thing to one audience and another thing to another. If Mr. Young wants to join me in criticizing President Nixon's handling of the Watergate mess and his disastrous economic policies, fine, because then we can concentrate on the many other issues on which we differ."

"On the other hand, if Young wants to support the president and his programs, I'd be happy to debate him on those issues as well. But Young must take some stand," Mikva said.

Young was not available for comment.

Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSESSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrel E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 106,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 15,903 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeeman ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 33, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president.

The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP

seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to candidate:

Terrel Clark — 106,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,003

Carl Hansen — 80,023
Joe Woods — 77,638
Hal Tyrell — 76,544
Ron Larson — 62,156

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maine Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,349 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tecson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Despite shortages, roads may be ready by Christmas

Despite a nationwide shortage of cement and liquid asphalt, there's a chance the Devon Avenue-Arlington Heights and Blesterfield roads project in Elk Grove Village may be completed by Christmas.

About 10 to 12 days of concrete work remain to be done on the project along with three weeks for installation of traffic lights, road signs and stripes, according to Burt Dahlstrom, superintendent for Milburn Bros., Inc., of Arlington Heights, project contractors.

Dahlstrom said the roadwork to expand Arlington Heights Road and a segment of Blesterfield from two to four lanes could be complete by Christmas if weather remains favorable.

"If we can have mean temperatures, which for this time of year have been above freezing, the roadwork could be done near Christmastime," he said. "We don't need the warm weather we've been having, but if it goes below freezing, we can't pour anymore concrete."

Some 75,000 of the 77,000 total square yards of roadway involved in the project have been paved since work began last May. Workers have completed 9,000 square yards of pavement since Nov. 8.

DAHLSTROM SAID if freezing temperatures should prevent completion of the $2.5 million project this year, the remaining area would be paved early next spring.

Dahlstrom expressed concern over the progress of the project earlier this month due to what he termed a "critical material shortage" affecting the supply of cement and liquid asphalt.

He said shortages of bulk cement forced on-and-off shutdowns of many construction projects in the area by companies who had to stop work while waiting for adequate supplies of cement.

"It just turned out that our suppliers were able to take care of us," said Dahlstrom. "We were fortunate enough to eke it out but we were sweating it every inch of the way. We were lucky to get enough cement to keep us going."

THE PROJECT has been ahead of schedule despite a short supply of liquid asphalt which Dahlstrom said is used to pave road shoulders along with drive-ways leading on and off the main roadway.

"Liquid asphalt is a petroleum by-product and you know what kind of shortage has existed there," he said.

When completed, Arlington Heights Road will have four lanes through the entire village while Blesterfield will be widened to four lanes west of Arlington Heights Road to Wellington Avenue. Project plans call for 1.7 miles of roadway in the area to be widened.

Also as part of the project, Kennedy Boulevard is to be widened to match expansion of Blesterfield at the Arlington-Kennedy-Blesterfield intersection.

THE CONTRACT also covers construction of curbs, covers, installation of traffic signals, gutters and landscaping of the area.

None of the landscaping has begun, said Dahlstrom who added sodding and dirt work will be taken care of next spring as "weather permits."

After completion of the widening project, traffic lights are expected to be installed at the intersections of Arlington Heights Road-Cosman Road-Chelmsford Lane, Arlington Heights Road-Blesterfield Road and Devon Avenue-Arlington Heights Road.

The intersections are currently regulated by four-way stop signs.

School tax hike on agenda

The possibility of a tax rate hike for residents of Elk Grove Township School Dist. 39 will be one of the main topics of discussion of a committee meeting of school board members tonight.

The school board's long-range financial planning task force will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the board room of the district's administration center, 2123 S. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights.

The task force has been studying the district's future financial situation for the past few months. Figures issued by the district's administration have indicated that a new formula for figuring state aid, will in three years substantially reduce the amount of aid Dist. 39 has been receiving.

The task force has also been looking into alternatives to a tax rate hike. District residents presently pay $1.71 per $100 assessed valuation to the Dist. 39 educational fund.

At least two members of the seven-member school board have publicly said they favor a tax rate increase at the present time. Such a hike would have to be approved by district voters this spring. The task force is expected to reach a decision on whether a tax hike is needed within the next few weeks. The task force's recommendation will then be presented at a meeting of the school board.

Research items use to be hiked

A new program called CORE, standing for coordinated reserves, will be used by the Elk Grove Village Public Library to increase use of student research material by up to 700 per cent.

Under the program, when a teacher assigns a special project to a class, he or she will mail a post card to the library explaining the assignment. The teacher will also tell the library when the assignment is due and how many students will be working on it.

The library will then assemble a "mini-collection" of books dealing with the assignment subject. CORE books will only be loaned for 48 hours and the overdue fine will be 25 cents per day for adult books and 15 cents per day for children books.

Since the CORE books may only be borrowed for 48 hours, instead of the normal two weeks, the utilization rate for the books could increase up to 700 per cent.

Mark Clark, administrative librarian, said, "Before, the first student to arrive at the library with an assignment got all the books and tied them up for two weeks. Now teachers can make sure that their students have a better chance at assignment-related material."

Parents to discuss needs of students

Meetings for parents to discuss unmet student needs will be at three more Dist. 39 schools this week. Some school board members and Supt. James Ervili are expected to attend the meeting to talk with parents.

Parents of students at Grantwood School, 225 E. Elk Grove Blvd. in Elk Grove Village, will meet tomorrow night at the school.

Robert Frost School parents will meet Wednesday night at the school, 1308 S. Cypress, Mount Prospect.

Dan Cook School parents will meet Thursday night at the school, 711 Chelmsford Ln., Elk Grove Village. All meetings start at 8 p.m.

Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

But most said they were going ahead with holiday purchases in the hope that things won't get too bad.

"I'M A LITTLE uncertain about the economy," explained Carol Smith of Prospect Heights who was shopping Friday at the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

This weekend marked the opening of the Christmas shopping season, and thousands of gift buyers jammed the malls at Woodfield and Randhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquale of Schaumburg said they at least try to start looking the day after Thanksgiving. The Pasquales say they are hoping to spend less.

Merchants are banking that 1973 will be a record sales year. More stores and more items, they say, should keep the Christmas cash registers ringing.

A RANDOM sample turned up visiting shoppers at Woodfield from Detroit, Philadelphia, Toledo, Phoenix, Milwaukee, Macomb, Moline, Decatur and Quincy. Most were area family guests filling out a long Thanksgiving weekend.

But some shoppers said they plan to do their gift selecting closer to home this year.

"I won't leave Barrington unless I have to for something," said Wendy La-geschulte. "I am watching prices and plan on making a lot of things myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Don Heffernan said they usually do their Christmas shopping in Arlington Heights and this year don't think the energy crisis will really change their buying habits.

"I won't let it affect my Christmas shopping," said Dorris Nichols of Mount Prospect. "I do try to help by turning off lights at home and putting down the heat a little," she said.

ELDERLY PEOPLE on fixed incomes have long been among consumers most sensitive to rising prices.

"We just can't afford to buy fancy gifts anymore," said a retired couple shopping for wrapping paper in downtown Palatine. The woman said she still wanted to exchange presents with family and friends, but this year would bake or make gifts in order to save money.

"High prices do cut the Christmas spirit because you can't afford to spend as much as you would like to," said a Mount Prospect mother of six who was out doing some "regular" shopping at Randhurst.

Many other shoppers, though, echoed the words of an 18-year-old Park Ridge girl who said, "I'm not cutting down — not on Christmas."

WHILE SHOPPERS may be wary of an economic recession brought on by energy shortages this winter, most apparently are reluctant, at least at this point, to let it dampen their holiday spirits.

127-year-old landmark

Community rallying to save Long Grove Church

by JILL BETTNER

Rekindling the spirit of the first German settlers who pitched in with hearts and hands to build the Long Grove Church back in 1848, the present congregation is rallying to save the community landmark.

The simple white-frame New England meetinghouse has stood near the covered bridge on the edge of the tiny village since the time only sprawling farms showed on the horizon.

It has remained, withstanding the exodus of many farmers who left the area during World War II. Through hard times in the early 1950s, when membership was dangerously low and the church was without a minister, it continued to exist.

THE CHURCH is still there, practically a remnant of the past, now that much of the rolling countryside surrounding it has been replaced by suburban tri-levels, quadro-homes and apartments.

Although a few of the descendants of the first families who erected the church still are members, the real strength of the church now lies in a new breed of settler, the suburbanite, who perhaps isn't really so different from his ancestors.

The spark of whatever it is that moved the early members of the church and the congregations following to build and preserve the church is still alive in the present congregation.

They have joined in a determined effort to see the church through the latest crisis that threatens its continued existence.

The crisis is the decaying roof of the structure that must be entirely replaced, a job estimated to cost nearly $7,000. The budget of the small church can't meet the need, so the members have taken on the responsibility of raising the money themselves.

They're conducting raffles, giving parties and asking for donations from others interested in preserving the 127-year-old landmark.

IMPRESSED with the fund-raising effort, a local Long Grove businessman is helping out by employing members of the church choir to sing Christmas carols outside his store during the holiday season.

The choir began caroling in front of Mangel Florists yesterday and planned to sing again today and several weekends before Christmas.

As their share in the project to obtain money for the roof repairs, Chuck and Jackie Pipher are planning a "Raise the Roof" party next Friday evening at their Kildeer home.

Mrs. Pipher said donations are being asked of the expected 110 guests.

Commenting on the couple's reason for taking the time and trouble to plan the party, Mrs. Pipher said, "We love that church. It's a landmark and none of us want to see it go. It's just that simple. If the roof isn't repaired, slowly but surely it will go."

Anyone else wanting to contribute to the roof repair fund should contact Michael Paull, minister of the Long Grove Church at 634-3635.

$20,000 damage in home fire

Fire caused an estimated $20,000 damage to the home of Edmund Seller, 818 Bonita, early Saturday morning. According to Elk Grove Village Fire Chief Allen Hullet, one of the Seller children smelled smoke and woke the rest of the family. The family was out of the home by the time firemen arrived.

Hullet said when the first engine arrived at the scene, the basement was engulfed in flames and the entire home was filled with smoke. He said the department suspects a possible electrical short caused the fire. A definite determination has not been made.

Damage was estimated at $10,000 for the house and $10,000 for the contents. Firemen were at the scene for about three hours after the alarm was called in at 1:37 a.m. Saturday. Two firefighters from the Elk Grove Village department entered the burning building and rescued the family dog.

Bartlett wreck takes 2 lives

by JERRY THOMAS

"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducked down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passengers on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1192 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

Killed in the collision were Dean H. Jordan, 40, of 760 Walnut, Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurisse, 56, of 632 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurisse, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

Another passenger, Michael Troops, 17, of 280 Norman Nelson, Elgin, suffered cuts around his eyes in the crash but did not require stitches. He was resting in bed at home soon after the collision. "He told me the first thing he knew he was on the floor and then trying to get out," said his father.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All others injured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrel E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 106,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 13,903 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president.

The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to:

Terrel Clark — 106,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,003

Carl Hansen — 86,023
Joe Woods — 77,638
Hal Tyrell — 76,544
Ron Larson — 62,136

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maine Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present Board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,849 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tesson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Valukas to face Pedersen for township GOP post

by JOANN VAN WYE

Fred H. Zajonc has dropped out of the race for Palatine Township Republican committeeman and has announced his support for Anton J. Valukas for the post.

Valukas' candidacy and Zajonc's withdrawal from the committeeman race were announced at a joint press conference on Saturday.

The announcement opens up the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization to its first contested committeeman election since 1962. Bernard E. Pedersen, current committeeman, has announced he will seek reelection in the March 19 primary. He could not be reached to comment on Valukas' candidacy.

"I, as well as all active Republicans, have known Mr. Valukas for many years as an outstanding Republican in the community. He has not taken sides during the past six years when the factions have developed in the party. I believe that he is the ideal candidate to pick up the reins of the party and lead us on to a united effort in 1974," said Zajonc, in urging Republicans to join him in his support of Valukas.

ZAJONC SAID his decision to withdraw from the committeeman race was based on Valukas' candidacy and response from residents who felt it was more important for him to remain on the Palatine Village Board. (He had indicated he would resign from the village board if elected committeeman.)

Valukas, 53, of 140 W. Wood St., Palatine, is a lawyer and 17-year resident of Palatine. He has served as former president, area chairman, precinct captain and member of the executive committee of the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization. He was also a candidate for judge of the Cook County Circuit Court in 1968 and has worked in the campaigns of U.S. Sen. Charles Percy and State Sen. David Regner.

When the ruptures in the local Republican party developed, Valukas declared himself neutral. He said he now feels it is time to become actively involved in the local party again and try to bring the various factions back together.

"I BELIEVE I can act as a cohesive force. It is untenable to have varying degrees of Republicanism within the village," said Valukas. He added he had no intention of using the committeeman post, if elected, as a stepping stone to higher office.

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and Trustee Richard W. Fonte both suggested the best way for Valukas to become reinvolved in the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization would be to sit down and resolve any differences he might have with Pedersen and then start attending the organization's meetings. Jones added he did not feel there was a split in the Republican party that needed mending.

The involvement of national party labels in local elections, which caused the split in the Republican party, is expected to become an issue in the committeeman race. Valukas is opposed to national politics on the local level.

"The trustees' principal responsibility should be to the residents of Palatine. There is no such thing as a dead Democratic tree or a dead Republican tree. There are just dead trees," said Valukas. He added if the GOPs currently holding elected local office were doing a good job he could back them.

VALUKAS SAID he does not expect to get the support of locally-elected Republicans who owe their loyalty to Pedersen, but that, if elected, he would invite them to join the party along with all

Consumers worried about economy, but keep buying

A Herald staff report

Consumers are worried about the economy, but at the same time are trying to keep it from spoiling their plans for a merry Christmas, a spot check of weekend holiday shoppers indicates.

A few people polled said they probably would buy fewer gifts this year than last. Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

Township Atty. Kelly dies

Francis E. (Gene) Kelly, Palatine Township attorney, died Saturday of a heart attack.

Kelly, 58, was pronounced dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital in Arlington Heights at 5:40 p.m. Palatine paramedics found Kelly "clinically dead" when they arrived at his home at 601 N. Benton St., Palatine, at 4:30 p.m. The paramedics administered drugs and various treatment to Kelly for nearly an hour but he did not respond.

A lifetime resident of the Palatine area, he was at home recovering from a recent stroke.

Kelly was appointed township attorney last June, replacing Roger Bjorvik. He had previously held the job from 1961 to 1965. Kelly had also served as Palatine Township highway attorney since 1957.

KELLY WAS a justice of the peace in Palatine Township during the 1950s and as such sat on the Palatine Township

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OCHLER

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "sky-rocket," said a spokesman for M. Walser Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 26 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

other Republicans, regardless of their beliefs.

Referring to Republicans in Rolling Meadows as "orphans in the storm," Valukas said if elected he would try to bring the citizens of Rolling Meadows back into the party. Valukas already has contacted Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer about his candidacy and plans to sit down with him at a later date to discuss a possible endorsement.

"I will sit down with any candidate who asks me to and discuss his viewpoints and plans for Rolling Meadows," said Meyer. He added he felt Republicans in Rolling Meadows had been taken for granted in the past. "They have stated people and then come to us and said, 'here are your candidates,'" Meyer.

"Tony will give the Republican party an openness where all factions will be welcome to come in and work," said

Valukas' name was prominently mentioned as a replacement for Walter Schaw in 1969 when he resigned as the Republican committeeman of Palatine Township. At that time, Valukas did not want the job and the appointment went to Pedersen, who was elected to a four-year term the following year.

MEMBERS OF the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization indicated they felt Valukas was a good man but should work from within the organization.

"They (Pedersen and Valukas) are both regular Republicans. I think it should be put up to a caucus and see where it goes from there. If Tony wins in a caucus I would have no qualms about supporting him. But, if Pedersen wins I would have no qualms about supporting him either. They are two good men," said Liston Pennington, the Republican township auditor from Rolling Meadows.

Valukas indicated he would seek the support of the Village Independent Party (VIP) along with several other local organizations. The VIP's opposed the Republican slate in the Palatine Village board election in April.

Thomas Kearns and Roger Bjorvik, president and vice president, respectively, of the VIP, indicated the party would not become involved in the committeeman race, although individuals in the party might become active in one of the campaigns. Both indicated they felt Valukas would help reunite the Republican party if elected because he is well thought of in all Republican circles. "I think it will be an exciting election," said

Bjorvik, who plans to actively support Valukas.

In announcing his candidacy, Pedersen charged the VIPs with trying to take over the Republican party by running Zajonc for committeeman because they lost to the Republicans in the last village election.

"THE VIP PARTY is a coalition of Independents, Democrats and Republicans and presumably, now, this same coalition, believes it can best defeat the Republican party on the local level by first taking it over. It is the spirit of getting even that motivates VIP involvement," Pedersen continued.

Zajonc and Clayton Brown, the other VIP trustee on the Palatine Village Board, both indicated they were glad the stigma of the VIP label would not be attached to the race any longer.

"Valukas is an outstanding man who is very prominent in the Republican party," said Brown, while blasting the regular Republicans for what he called their narrow mindedness. "If you are not with them, you're a Democrat. Different views have to be welcome if we are to have a viable party," he said.

"It is clear the VIPs have been stopped in their attempt to take over the party. That we won't accept. If they want to participate, that is fine. The door is always open," said Fonte.

Petitions for the committeeman race must be filed with the Cook County Clerk between Dec. 10 and Dec. 17. Republican candidates need 217 to 347 signatures to have their name placed on the March primary ballot.

3 in running for police chief

The search for a Palatine police chief has been narrowed to three candidates.

The police search committee, appointed by the village board to interview candidates to replace former Palatine Police Chief Robert R. Centner, has submitted the names of three candidates to Acting Village Mgr. James Bennett.

An executive session of the village board has been scheduled for 8 p.m. tonight at village hall, 54 S. Brockway, to discuss the police chief appointment.

The committee has completed its job and the matter is now in the hands of the village manager, village president and village board, said Joseph Kiszka, chairman of the search committee. Kiszka said the search committee would be meeting with the village board on Dec. 3 to explain the procedure and methods it had used to arrive at its recommendations.

Centner resigned under pressure from the village board on June 25. He remains on the force as a lieutenant.

ture in 1958 but was defeated by Sen. John A. Graham.

As an attorney, he was active in helping area farmers form many shelter taxing bodies including the Palatine Township Rural Park District.

Kelly graduated from Palatine High School in 1934 and received his law degree from Loyola University in 1939. He served as an Army lieutenant in World War II and as a captain in the Korean War.

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passenger on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1102 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

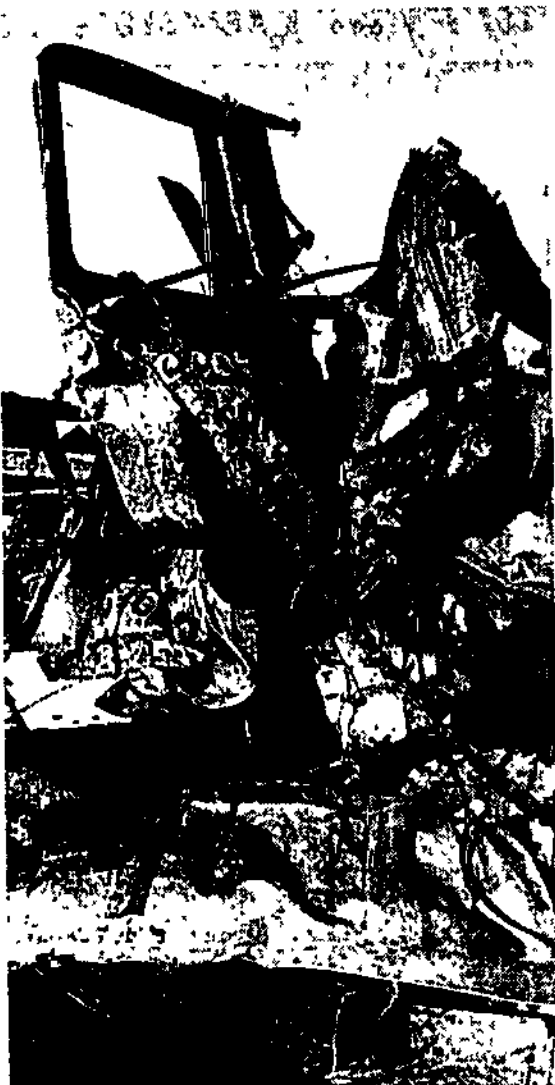

Killed in the collision were Dean H. Jordan, 40, of 760 Walnut, Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurisse, 56, of 532 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurisse, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All the injured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

"We have no witnesses, but you could have stood on top of that intersection and seen nothing, because of the fog," said the policeman. "The sheared off gate arms make us believe the lights and arms were down and working."

Others injured were passenger Dave R. Williams, 20, of 610 Banbury St., Roselle; Thomas S. Lampman, 23, of 4 Johnson St., E. Dundee, fireman on the westbound train, and Allen F. Johnston, 60, of 331 Griswold, Elgin, engineer of the eastbound train.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Hefferman said they usually do their Christmas shopping in Arlington Heights and this year don't think the energy crisis will really change their buying habits.

"I won't let it affect my Christmas shopping," said Dorris Nichols of Mount Prospect. "I do try to help by turning off lights at home and putting down the heat a little," she said.

ELDERLY PEOPLE on fixed incomes have long been among consumers most sensitive to rising prices.

"We just can't afford to buy fancy gifts anymore," said a retired couple shopping for wrapping paper in downtown Palatine. The woman said she still wanted to exchange presents with family and friends, but this year would bake or make gifts in order to save money.

"High prices do cut the Christmas spirit because you can't afford to spend as much as you would like to," said a Mount Prospect mother of six who was out doing some "regular" shopping at Randhurst.

Many other shoppers, though, echoed the words of an 18-year-old Park Ridge girl who said, "I'm not cutting down — not on Christmas."

WHILE SHOPPERS may be wary of an economic recession brought on by energy shortages this winter, most apparently are reluctant, at least at this point, to let it dampen their holiday spirits.

As one man put it, "I think we're going to be in trouble. I'm just hoping it doesn't hit before February or March."

Got a complaint? Bring it to county

A mobile unit from the office of Inquiry and Information with Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne will be stationed at the Palatine Plaza and Arlington Heights Northpoint Shopping Center Dec. 4-7.

Members of Dunne's office answer questions about county functions. A supply of frequently-requested forms will be available, and deputies will also register new voters.

The unit will be at the two locations from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and 1:30 p.m.-4 p.m. on the following schedule: Palatine Plaza, Tuesday and Thursday mornings and Wednesday and Friday afternoons; Northpoint Shopping Center, Tuesday and Thursday afternoons and Wednesday and Friday mornings.

Palatine Plaza is on Northwest Highway west of Hicks Road in Palatine, and the Northpoint Shopping Center is at the Rand-Arlington Heights roads intersection.

Valukas to face Pedersen for township GOP post

other Republicans, regardless of their beliefs.

Referring to Republicans in Rolling Meadows as "orphans in the storm," Valukas said if elected he would try to bring the citizens of Rolling Meadows back into the party. Valukas already has contacted Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer about his candidacy and plans to sit down with him at a later date to discuss a possible endorsement.

"I will sit down with any candidate who asks me to and discuss his viewpoints and plans for Rolling Meadows," said Meyer. He added he felt Republicans in Rolling Meadows had been taken for granted in the past. "They have slanted people and then come to us and said, 'here are your candidates.'"

Franchise gains tentative OK

A plan to construct a Kentucky Fried Chicken Restaurant on Plum Grove Road near Euclid Avenue has received tentative approval from a Rolling Meadows special zoning commission.

Representatives for the firm presented plans to the commission last week during a public hearing. The store would be located adjacent to the 7-Eleven Food Store on south Plum Grove Road near Euclid on a site presently located in unincorporated Cook County.

The commission voted 3-1 to recommend approval of the store with only Comr. Elizabeth Brissenden opposing the plan. Final approval of the proposal must come from the city council. As yet, no date has been set for the plan to be presented to the council.

IF THE PLAN is approved, the site on which the store would be built would be annexed to the city.

Representatives of the chicken firm have said construction of the store would be in keeping with the commercial surroundings of the Plum Grove Road area.

However, both 1st Ward aldermen, Thomas Scanlan and Merrill Wuerch, have voiced opposition to the plan. The store would be located in the 1st Ward. Scanlan has said he is opposed to any further commercial development along Plum Grove Road, Algonquin Road and Hicks Road in the city.

"Tony will give the Republican party an openness where all factions will be welcome to come in and work," said Meyer.

Valukas' name was prominently mentioned as a replacement for Walter Schaw in 1969 when he resigned as the Republican committeeman of Palatine Township. At that time, Valukas did not want the job and the appointment went to Pedersen, who was elected to a four-year term the following year.

MEMBERS OF the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization indicated they felt Valukas was a good man but should work from within the organization.

"They (Pedersen and Valukas) are both regular Republicans. I think it should be put up to a caucus and see where it goes from there. If Tony wins in a caucus I would have no qualms about supporting him. But, if Pedersen wins I would have no qualms about supporting him either. They are two good men," said Liston Pennington, the Republican township auditor from Rolling Meadows.

Valukas indicated he would seek the support of the Village Independent Party (VIP) along with several other local organizations. The VIP's opposed the Republican slate in the Palatine Village board election in April.

Thomas Kearns and Roger Bjorvik, president and vice president, respectively, of the VIP, indicated the party would not become involved in the committee race, although individuals in the party might become active in one of the campaigns. Both indicated they felt Valukas would help reunite the Republican party if elected because he is well thought of in all Republican circles. "I think it will be an exciting election," said Bjorvik, who plans to actively support Valukas.

In announcing his candidacy, Pedersen charged the VIPs with trying to take over the Republican party by running Zajonc for committeeman because they lost to the Republicans in the last village election.

"THE VIP PARTY is a coalition of Independents, Democrats and Republicans and presumably, now, this same coalition, believes it can best defeat the Republican party on the local level by first taking it over. It is the spirit of getting even that motivates VIP involvement," Pedersen continued.

Zajonc and Clayton Brown, the other VIP trustee on the Palatine Village Board, both indicated they were glad the stigma of the VIP label would not be attached to the race any longer.

"Valukas is an outstanding man who is very prominent in the Republican party," said Brown, while blasting the regular Republicans for what he called their narrow mindedness. "If you are not with them, you're a Democrat. Different views have to be welcome if we are to have a viable party," he said.

"It is clear the VIPs have been stopped in their attempt to take over the party. That we won't accept. If they want to participate, that is fine. The door is always open," said Fonte.

Petitions for the committeeman race must be filed with the Cook County Clerk between Dec. 10 and Dec. 17. Republican candidates need 217 to 347 signatures to have their name placed on the March primary ballot.

Board of Auditors until the Illinois legislature enacted the judicial reform bills of the 1960s eliminating the township justices of the peace and calling for the election of the township board of auditors.

Kelly was active in the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization for several years and at one time headed the Palatine Township Republican Club. He was also a candidate for the 3rd senatorial district seat in the Illinois legislature in 1968 but was defeated by Sen. John A. Graham.

As an attorney, he was active in helping area farmers form many shelter taxing bodies including the Palatine Township Rural Park District.

Countryside YMCA is now located on what was originally the Kelly farm.

Kelly graduated from Palatine High School in 1934 and received his law degree from Loyola University in 1949. He served as an Army Lieutenant in World War II and as a captain in the Korean War.

Inverness Village Clerk Sandy Johnson receives $125 per month, not per week as reported in yesterday's Herald. Mrs. Johnson operates the clerk's office out of her Inverness home.

Counterfeit $10 bills discovered in bank

Two counterfeit $10 bills were turned over to Rolling Meadows police last week, both fitting the description of fraudulent bills that the United States Treasury Department has warned are being circulated in the Northwest suburban area.

The bills, one turned in Wednesday and the other Friday, were discovered in receipts at the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

A bogus $20 bill was turned in to police last month from the bank after it was discovered in receipts from Rolling Meadows High School, but police have not determined from where that fake bill may have come.

An effort to trace the bad bills is continuing.

Bartlett wreck takes 2 lives

by JERRY THOMAS

"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducked down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrell E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 108,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 13,903 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president.

The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maine Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 39,849 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tecson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Consumers worried about economy, but keep buying

A Herald staff report

Consumers are worried about the economy, but at the same time are trying to keep it from spoiling their plans for a merry Christmas, a spot check of weekend holiday shoppers indicates.

A few people polled said they probably would buy fewer gifts this year than last. Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

But most said they were going ahead with holiday purchases in the hope that things won't get too bad.

"I'M A LITTLE uncertain about the economy, yes . . . but not for Christmas," explained Carol Smith of Prospect Heights who was shopping Friday at the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

This weekend marked the opening of the Christmas shopping season, and thousands of gift buyers jammed the malls at Woodfield and Randhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquale of Schaumburg said they at least try to start looking the day after Thanksgiving. The Pasquales say they are hoping to spend less.

Merchants are banking that 1973 will be a record sales year. More stores and more items, they say, should keep the Christmas cash registers ringing.

A RANDOM sample turned up visiting shoppers at Woodfield from Detroit, Philadelphia, Toledo, Phoenix, Milwaukee, Macomb, Moline, Decatur and Quincy. Most were area family guests filling out a long Thanksgiving weekend.

But some shoppers said they plan to do their gift selecting closer to home this year.

"I won't leave Barrington unless I have to for something," said Wendy Lageschulte. "I am watching prices and plan on making a lot of things myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Don Heffernan said they usually do their Christmas shopping in Arlington Heights and this year don't think the energy crisis will really change their buying habits.

"I won't let it affect my Christmas shopping," said Dorris Nichols of Mount Prospect. "I do try to help by turning off lights at home and putting down the heat a little," she said.

Friends, family help mom of 3 fight for recovery

by JERRY THOMAS

A sense of humor, prayers of family and friends and the spunk to get angry are behind Pat Drahos' remarkable fight for recovery, said her husband, Paul.

"After weeks in a coma, eight months of hospitalization during which she fought against complete paralysis and loss of speech, Pat is walking and talking today," said Drahos.

"It's a miracle, but it's one that will take a lot more hard work and prayer," he added.

Drahos, his wife, and three daughters, Michele 11, Karen, 9, and Dana, 8, live at 114 Cochise Ln., Hoffman Estates.

Mrs. Drahos, a laboratory technician at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village, was hospitalized in April after complaining of severe headaches. The headaches, according to doctors, were caused by a weakened and ballooned blood vessel in her brain. Surgery to correct the condition was successful, said her husband.

"PAT HAD to relearn everything and regain control of her body. You see, it was as if the operation had severed connections and new ones had to be established," he said.

"With the help of the people she worked with at Alexian Brothers, the children and our friends and the therapy she receives, Pat is getting better," said Drahos.

Drahos, who works in Elgin, said people who worked with his wife stop in during the day to visit and help her. "The visits mean a lot to Pat and give her the opportunity to try out talking," said Drahos.

"Things people take for granted like chit-chatting have become major accomplishments to us," he added.

"Pat laughs when she bleeps at her mastering of speech or her ABC's and that's where her sense of humor helps us all," he added.

FRIENDS OF THE Drahos family, like the Rev. John Sternberg, pastor of St. Peter Lutheran Church of Schaumburg, and Bill Shields, Alexian Brothers administrator, have established funds to benefit the family.

Rev. Sternberg said people who want to help the family with hospital bills should send donations directly to the Drahos fund established by Shields at the Elk Grove Bank at Arlington Heights and Higgins roads, Elk Grove Village, Ill.

To date the fund holds $2,200 said Shields. It started with the proceeds from a hospital bake sale the laboratory employees sponsored, and has grown with donations from many people throughout the area, he said.

Mrs. Drahos had worked at Alexian Brothers since the hospital opened its doors in 1966.

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLE

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "skyrocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 26 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Joycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

Train rider gives thanks—for life

by JERRY THOMAS
"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducked down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passengers on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1192 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

Killed in the collision were Dean H. Jordan, 40, of 700 Walnut, Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurissi, 56, of 632 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurissi, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

Another passenger, Michael Troops, 17, of 200 Norman Nelson, Elgin, suffered cuts around his eyes in the crash but did not require stitches. He was resting in bed at home soon after the collision. "He told me the first thing he knew he was on the floor and then trying to get out," said his father.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All the injured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

Others injured were passenger Dave R. Williams, 20, of 610 Banbury St., Roselle; Thomas S. Lampman, 23, of 4 Johnson St., E. Dundee, fireman on the westbound train; and Allen F. Johnston, 60, of 331 Griswold, Elgin, engineer of the eastbound train.

"We have no witnesses, but you could have stood on top of that intersection and seen nothing, because of the fog" said the policeman. "The sheared off gate arms make us believe the lights and arms were down and working."

Others injured were passenger Dave R. Williams, 20, of 610 Banbury St., Roselle; Thomas S. Lampman, 23, of 4 Johnson St., E. Dundee, fireman on the westbound train; and Allen F. Johnston, 60, of 331 Griswold, Elgin, engineer of the eastbound train.

"It is clear the VIPs have been stopped in their attempt to take over the party. That we won't accept. If they want to participate, that is fine. The door is always open," said Fonte.

Petitions for the committee race must be filed with the Cook County Clerk between Dec. 10 and Dec. 17. Republican candidates need 217 to 347 signatures to have their name placed on the March primary ballot.

"I, as well as all active Republicans, have known Mr. Valukas for many years as an outstanding Republican in the community. He has not taken sides during the past six years when the factions have developed in the party. I believe that he is the ideal candidate to pick up the reins of the party and lead us on to a united effort in 1974," said Zajonc, in urging Republicans to join him in his support of Valukas.

ZAJONC SAID his decision to withdraw from the committee race was based on Valukas' candidacy and response from residents who felt it was more important for him to remain on the Palatine Village Board. (He had indicated he would resign from the village board if elected committeeman.)

Valukas, 53, of 140 W. Wood St., Palatine, is a lawyer and 17-year resident of Palatine. He has served as former president, area chairman, precinct captain and member of the executive committee of the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization. He was also a candidate for judge of the Cook County Circuit Court in 1968 and has worked in the campaigns of U.S. Sen. Charles Percy and State Sen. David Regner.

When the ruptures in the local Republican party developed, Valukas declared himself neutral. He said he now feels it is time to become actively involved in the local party again and try to bring the various factions back together.

"I BELIEVE I can act as a cohesive force. It is untenable to have varying degrees of Republicanism within the village," said Valukas. He added he had no intention of using the committee post, if elected, as a stepping stone to higher office.

Palatine Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones and Trustee Richard W. Fonte both suggested the best way for Valukas to become reinvolved in the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization would be to sit down and resolve any differences he might have with Pedersen and then start attending the organization's meetings. Jones added he did not feel there was a split in the Republican party that needed mending.

The involvement of national party labels in local elections, which caused the split in the Republican party, is expected to become an issue in the committee race. Valukas is opposed to national politics on the local level.

"The trustees' principal responsibility should be to the residents of Palatine. There is no such thing as a dead Democratic tree or a dead Republican tree. There are just dead trees," said Valukas. He added if the GOPs currently holding elected local office were doing a good job he could back them.

VALUKAS SAID he does not expect to get the support of locally-elected Republicans who owe their loyalty to Pedersen, but that, if elected, he would invite them to join the party along with all other Republicans, regardless of their beliefs.

Referring to Republicans in Rolling Meadows as "orphans in the storm," Valukas said if elected he would try to bring the citizens of Rolling Meadows back into the party. Valukas already has contacted Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer about his candidacy and plans to sit down with him at a later date to discuss a possible endorsement.

DRIVER DEAN JORDAN, 40, of 760 Walnut St., Elgin, was killed Friday morning when his loaded gravel truck crashed through a Milwaukee Road R.R. crossing gate and collided with an eastbound train at the Naperville Road crossing near Bartlett. Seconds later the train was struck again by a westbound train and its engineer, Jose Neurissi, 56, of Dundee also was killed.

COMMUTER TRAIN 218 eastbound on the Milwaukee Road R.R. on a fog shrouded Friday morning was derailed after being struck by a gravel truck at the Naperville Road crossing near Bartlett. Seconds later a westbound train crashed into it, leaving two dead and six injured.

Three Chicago men arrested in Robert Hall store theft

Three Chicago men who ran out of gas at 3 a.m. Saturday on the Tri-State Tollway — (I-294), were helped, right into jail, by a Dist. 15 policeman when he discovered over $2,500 worth of stolen merchandise in the car.

Hoffman Estates Detective Donald Martin said the men Daniel Bingham, 23, 1331 S. Washtenaw St.; Melvin Watts, 33, 3928 S. May St.; and Theodore Robertson, 18, 1856 S. 18th St., all of Chicago, apparently stole the goods from the Robert Hall Village, Higgins and Barrington roads, Hoffman Estates.

After the alert from Dist. 15 police, Hoffman Police Sergeant Richard Heckert and Martin questioned Wells Fargo security guard Marvin Louis, 31, of 2305 S. Michigan Ave., Chicago, who was on duty as guard at Robert Hall, and arrested him for conspiracy to commit theft.

POLICE SAID Louis told them he had admitted the three others into the store during the night but was unaware of what they were doing.

The others are charged with theft and are being held with Louis in the Hoffman Estates jail awaiting bond hearing today. A court date of Jan. 11 has been set in Hoffman Estates Court.

Bingham and Robertson reportedly are also employed as Wells Fargo security guards.

The merchandise, coats, clothing, linens, musical instruments, stereos and radios, was identified as property of the Robert Hall Village store by manager Robert Buerlin.

Conant open house includes conferences

Parents will be able to arrange conferences to discuss their children's progress Tuesday at the annual Conant High School open house.

The open house, with five-minute parent conferences, will be from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m. Students will receive preregistration forms for parents to fill out if they want to schedule a conference. Parents who do not fill out the form may come to the school and request a conference Tuesday.

Valukas to seek township GOP post

by JOANN VAN WYE

Fred H. Zajonc has dropped out of the race for Palatine Township Republican committeeman and has announced his support for Anton J. Valukas for the post.

Valukas' candidacy and Zajonc's withdrawal from the committee race were announced at a joint press conference on Saturday.

The announcement opens up the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization to its first contested committee election since 1962. Bernard E. Pedersen, current committeeman, has announced he will seek reelection in the March 19 primary. He could not be reached to comment on Valukas' candidacy.

"I, as well as all active Republicans, have known Mr. Valukas for many years as an outstanding Republican in the community. He has not taken sides during the past six years when the factions have developed in the party. I believe that he is the ideal candidate to pick up the reins of the party and lead us on to a united effort in 1974," said Zajonc, in urging Republicans to join him in his support of Valukas.

ZAJONC SAID his decision to withdraw from the committee race was based on Valukas' candidacy and response from residents who felt it was more important for him to remain on the Palatine Village Board. (He had indicated he would resign from the village board if elected committeeman.)

Valukas already has contacted Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland J. Meyer about his candidacy and plans to sit down with him at a later date to discuss a possible endorsement.

"I will sit down with any candidate who asks me to and discuss his viewpoints and plans for Rolling Meadows," said Meyer. He added he felt Republicans in Rolling Meadows had been taken for granted in the past. "They have slated people and then come to us and said, 'here are your candidates.'"

"Tony will give the Republican party an openness where all factions will be welcome to come in and work," said Meyer.

Valukas' name was prominently mentioned as a replacement for Walter Schaw in 1969 when he resigned as the Republican committeeman of Palatine Township. At that time, Valukas did not want the job and the appointment went to Pedersen, who was elected to a four-year term the following year.

MEMBERS OF THE Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization indicated they felt Valukas was a good man but should work from within the organization.

"They (Pedersen and Valukas) are both regular Republicans. I think it should be put up to a caucus and see where it goes from there. If Tony wins in a caucus I would have no qualms about supporting him. But, if Pedersen wins I would have no qualms about supporting him either. They are two good men," said Liston Pennington, the Republican township auditor from Rolling Meadows

Valukas indicated he would seek the support of the Village Independent Party (VIP) along with several other local organizations. The VIP's opposed the Republican slate in the Palatine Village board election in April.

Thomas Kearns and Roger Bjorvik, president and vice president, respectively, of the VIP, indicated the party would not become involved in the committee race, although individuals in the party might become active in one of the campaigns. Both indicated they felt Valukas would help reunite the Republican party if elected because he is well thought of in all Republican circles. "I think it will be an exciting election," said Bjorvik, who plans to actively support Valukas.

In announcing his candidacy, Pedersen charged the VIPs with trying to take over the Republican party by running Zajonc for committeeman because they lost to the Republicans in the last village election.

"THE VIP PARTY is a coalition of Independents, Democrats and Republicans and presumably, now, this same coalition, believes it can best defeat the Republican party on the local level by first taking it over. It is the spirit of getting even that motivates VIP involvement," Pedersen continued.

Zajonc and Clayton Brown, the other VIP trustee on the Palatine Village Board, both indicated they were glad the stigma of the VIP label would not be attached to the race any longer.

"Valukas is an outstanding man who is very prominent in the Republican party," said Brown, while blasting the regular Republicans for what he called their narrow mindedness. "If you are not with them, you're a Democrat. Different views have to be welcome if we are to have a viable party," he said.

"It is clear the VIPs have been stopped in their attempt to take over the party. That we won't accept. If they want to participate, that is fine. The door is always open," said Fonte.

Hansen, Fulle slated, Walsh rejected

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrel E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 166,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 13,803 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president. The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to candidate:

Terrel Clark — 166,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,003

Carl Hansen — 86,023
Joe Woods — 77,638
Hal Tyrell — 76,544
Ron Larson — 62,156

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Maine Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote to again be a candidate, Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Richard M. Nixon

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,849 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Tecson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Prospect Hts. boundaries, minus four firms, 'certain'

Proposed boundaries for the City of Prospect Heights not to include four companies east of the Cook County Forest Preserve now appears certain.

Prospect Heights Improvement Association member Richard Wolf, who is on the boundary committee, said last week responses from three of the firms have been negative.

"In general, at the present time, Allstate Insurance Co. is not interested," Wolf said. He added that Illinois Bell Telephone Co.'s reaction to being included as part of Prospect Heights was "one of somewhat indifference."

Further, Wolf said the impression he received from the telephone company officials was that they'd prefer to become a part of Northbrook as they already get fire protection from that community.

Culligan Water Softening Co. officials already have said they want to become a part of Northbrook. The fourth firm is A. C. Nielsen Co., the public opinion firm.

Wolf also said it appears unlikely the proposed boundaries will be changed with regard to Rand Road. "We have gotten no positive response from either residents or businesses along Rand Road," he said.

It had been suggested to the boundary committee that the boundaries be changed to include the four eastern firms and businesses along Rand Road to increase the proposed municipality's sales tax rebate revenue. Communities in Illinois receive one penny for each dollar spent within their boundaries.

The PHIA hopes to fill incorporation papers in Cook County Circuit Court by the end of the year. Wolf said the petition papers are still being drawn up and soon will be distributed so that the necessary 200 signatures of registered voters can be obtained.

Higher utility rates topic of NW council

How to combat proposed higher utility rates will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations.

The council, which takes in homeowners groups in the New Town section of Mount Prospect, will also discuss the future of Rob Roy Golf Course and plans to install street lights in their subdivisions. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. in Indian Grove School, 1340 N. Burning Bush Ln.

Historical Society to talk financing

Early methods of financing used by municipalities will be discussed at a meeting of the Mount Prospect Historical Society tomorrow night at the Mount Prospect Country Club, 600 S. Sec-Gwyn Ave.

Tom Collins of Arlington Heights will be guest speaker. In addition, a "show-and-tell" session is planned, featuring Christmas tree ornaments. The program will begin at 8 p.m.

Commercial area OK'd

The Mount Prospect Village Board has agreed to grant commercial zoning to property along Rand Road.

The parcels occupied by Mister Donut and by Crazy Nick's Snack Shop, at 700 and 720 Rand Rd., are now classified as B-3 for commercial use. They had been zoned for residential use.

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLER

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "skyrocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 26 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebbert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

Consumers worried about economy, but keep buying

A Herald staff report

Consumers are worried about the economy, but at the same time are trying to keep it from spoiling their plans for a merry Christmas, a spot check of weekend holiday shoppers indicates.

A few people polled said they probably would buy fewer gifts this year than last. Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

But most said they were going ahead with holiday purchases in the hope that things won't get too bad.

"I'M A LITTLE uncertain about the economy, yes . . . but not for Christmas," explained Carol Smith of Prospect Heights who was shopping Friday at the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

This weekend marked the opening of the Christmas shopping season, and thousands of gift buyers jammed the malls at Woodfield and Randhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquale of Schaumburg said they at least try to start looking the day after Thanksgiving. The Pasquales say they are hoping to spend less.

Merchants are banking that 1973 will be a record sales year. More stores and more items, they say, should keep the Christmas cash registers ringing.

Train rider gives thanks—for life

by JERRY THOMAS

"I missed work today but I've still got God to be thankful to," said Mrs. Jenny Hokanson, 70, one of the passengers on the Milwaukee Road train derailed Friday in a truck collision at a fog-hidden intersection near Bartlett.

"I was on my way to my job and just resting and reading the paper," she said. "Good thing, too, because when we first hit, I covered my head with that fat paper and threw myself on the floor."

Mrs. Hokanson, shaken in the crash that left two dead and six injured, walked hundreds of yards from the scene to be transported to a hospital for treatment.

After the impact, she said, "I was still ducking down with stones and sand showering over my head and shoulders when we were hit again."

THE COMMUTER train, which carries up to 600 passengers on a normal weekday morning had only about 60 persons aboard because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday when a gravel truck slammed into it at the Naperville Road grade crossing.

"The cars were empty compared to what it's usually like," said Mrs. Hokanson, who lives at 1192 Indian Dr., Elgin. The only persons near her in the car were a young man and a conductor, she said.

"The conductor came and then the three of us just got out of there as fast as we could scramble," she said. "None of us seemed to be hurt bad. They just came up to us out of the fog asking how to help."

"I went to the ambulance but it wasn't necessary. I'm just thanking God I've just got a sore shoulder, nothing else," she said. "Thanksgiving wasn't yesterday for me. It was this morning after."

Killed in the collision were Dean H. Jordan, 40, of 760 Walnut, Elgin, driver of the gravel truck; and Joseph E. Neurisse, 56, of 632 S. First, Dundee, engineer on the second of two trains involved in the mishap.

ACCORDING TO police and railroad accounts, Jordan's truck approached the tracks on Naperville Road in the thick fog shortly after 7:30 a.m. The crossing gates were lowered and warning lights flashing but Jordan apparently did not see them until he was too close to stop.

The truck, owned by Accorsi Sand and Gravel Co., Bartlett, skidded into an eastbound Milwaukee Road commuter train, striking the second and third coach cars on the 4-car train.

The two coach cars were shoved onto a second track into the path of a westbound passenger train. Neurisse, conductor of the westbound train, was killed in the resulting second crash.

Another passenger, Michael Troops, 17, of 280 Norman Nelson, Elgin, suffered cuts around his eyes in the crash but did not require stitches. He was resting in bed at home soon after the collision. "He told me the first thing he knew he was on the floor and then trying to get out," said his father.

William Wilson, conductor on the eastbound train, was treated for a broken rib at Sherman Hospital in Elgin. All the injured were released after treatment.

THE FEDERAL Railroad Administration sent investigators to Bartlett Friday to collect evidence and interview passengers. Their reports will go to the National Transportation Safety Board, which is not expected to release its findings on the crash for six months to a year.

Bartlett Patrolman Howard Correll said passengers and railroad employees stayed calm during the rescue operation. "Heavy fog hampered rescue operations and the rail employees who were injured themselves helped walk out all the passengers," he said. "The truck cab was completely sheared off the trailer," he added.

"We have no witnesses, but you could have stood on top of that intersection and seen nothing, because of the fog" said the policeman. "The sheared off gate arms make us believe the lights and arms were down and working."

Others injured were passenger Dave R. Williams, 20, of 610 Banbury St.,

Roselle; Thomas S. Lampman, 23, of 4 Johnson St., E. Dundee, fireman on the westbound train, and Allen F. Johnston, 60, of 331 Grisswald, Elgin, engineer of the eastbound train.

Surprise candidate for top county post

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT

Suburban Republican Committeemen went for a surprise, compromise candidate last night and selected State Senator Terrel E. Clark of Western Springs to run for president of the Cook County Board.

Clark, a three-term member of the Illinois Senate from the 9th District and also GOP committeeman for Lyons Township, will oppose incumbent County Board Pres. George Dunne.

Clark gathered enough votes from the GOP committeemen to swamp the bid by Arlington Heights Mayor Jack Walsh for the party nod. Clark was given 100,100 votes under a complex system of balloting which derives from the number of Republican votes cast in each township during the last election.

WALSH RECEIVED 15,905 votes under that system.

The choice of Clark by the Republican committeemen ends speculation that Walsh or Elk Grove Township GOP Committeeman Carl Hansen would be the party's choice to run against Dunne.

The decision by State Rep. Henry Hyde to seek a congressional seat vacated by Harold Collier made Hyde's earlier inter-

Clark, 53, an insurance broker, served as assistant Republican leader during the 77th General Assembly and was a member of the Illinois House before election to the Senate.

Sunday night balloting among the committeemen gave Clark the clear edge as the candidate for county board president.

The committeemen also selected their ticket of six Republicans to run for GOP

Nixon's energy plan: page 3

seats on the county board of commissioners.

The vote for the GOP candidates was made by 29 of 30 township committeemen present in their Chicago headquarters last night. Surprisingly, no woman was slated by the committeemen, despite their earlier promise.

THE VOTE LAST night according to candidate:

Terrel Clark — 100,100
Floyd Fulle — 122,005

Carl Hansen — 86,023
Joe Woods — 77,638
Hal Tyrell — 76,344
Ron Larson — 62,156

Fulle, of Des Plaines, is GOP committeeman of Des Plaines Township. He is currently on the County Board and because of last night's vote will again be a candidate. Fulle is also expected to be the next GOP county chairman.

Hansen is a former member of the county board by appointment and has been eager to return to the board.

Joe Woods of Oak Park is currently on the county board and was the Republican candidate in 1970 against present board President Dunne. He is the former sheriff.

Tyrell is the GOP committeeman from Proviso Township in south Cook County. Larson is Worth Township committeeman.

THE STRONGEST woman candidate for a county board seat was Mary Mac-

Donald of Lincolnwood. Mrs. MacDonald got 59,849 votes, not enough to make the top six vote-getters.

Joe Teeson of Riverside was an early candidate for the county president's post but he withdrew his name, thus leaving only Clark and Walsh as the candidates.

There was some indication last night that some GOP candidates may enter a primary fight against the party slate, but exactly who those candidates may be remained unanswered.

Task force on race track housing urges upgrading

A special village task force on backstretch housing at Arlington Park Race Track has recommended a series of improvements to upgrade living quarters and tighten fire safety regulations in the race track stable area.

The proposals also spell out maintenance and housekeeping practices that would keep living conditions for the race track's stable workers up to the recommended standards.

The biggest, and potentially most costly, recommendation is a three-way fire protection system consisting of fire extinguishers not more than 75 feet from any room, a manual fire alarm in every dormitory and barn where living quarters are attached and, in wood barns, 100 feet of fire hose to extend within 35 feet of any part of the building.

The task force recommendations have been forwarded to the Illinois Racing Board and the Arlington Heights Village Board.

They are intended to fill a void between the absence of state regulations and the inapplicable features of Arlington Heights' hotel, rooming house and apartment housing codes.

THE TASK FORCE, composed of the assistant village manager, building and health directors and the fire chief, was appointed by Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson after an Illinois Racing Board backstretch report criticized the enforcement of local fire and health regulations at Arlington Park.

In her report, Illinois Racing Board Member Lucy Reum urges the racing board to adopt its own standards, within five years, governing backstretch conditions at all state race tracks.

Other recommendations include:

- Repair of screen doors, windows, walls and comfort stations.
- Provide heat or use unheated rooms only during the months of June, July and August.
- New comfort stations in several locations.

THE PROPOSED improvements are intended to bring Arlington Park's backstretch into compliance with living standards recommended in the Illinois Migrant Labor Camp Law and by the Illinois Department of Health.

The task force proposes a five-year agreement between the race track and the village on the standards. During this time, the report presumes, the Illinois Racing Board will adopt backstretch regulations applicable to all Illinois race tracks.

The task force report further recommends that:

- Each comfort station be cleaned twice daily.
- Tenants be required to clean their own rooms and to have them available for inspection, by either Arlington Park or village officials.
- Establishment of an office where backstretch workers can report housing deficiencies.
- Assignment of workers to man fire fighting equipment in case of a fire.
- Daily fire prevention inspections.
- A program of housing inspections, with reports on deficiencies and corrective actions given to the village.
- Posting of rooms found suitable for occupancy giving the number of authorized occupants, and the name of the race track official responsible for the judgment.
- The Village of Arlington Heights reserves the right to placard any room "Unfit for Occupancy" after inspection and proper notice.

THE TASK force report states that William Thayer, general manager at Arlington Park, has expressed agreement with the recommendations.

The president of Arlington Park-Washington Park Race Tracks, Jack Loomis, was also consulted during the course of the administrative committee's inquiry. (Continued on page 5)

Consumers worried about economy, but keep buying

A Herald staff report

Consumers are worried about the economy, but at the same time are trying to keep it from spoiling their plans for a merry Christmas, a spot check of weekend holiday shoppers indicates.

A few people polled said they probably would buy fewer gifts this year than last. Higher prices and uncertainty over the full impact of the energy crisis later this winter apparently are making some shoppers more dollar conscious.

Others said they would try to do more shopping closer to home in order to save gasoline.

But most said they were going ahead with holiday purchases in the hope that things won't get too bad.

"I'M A LITTLE uncertain about the economy, yes . . . but not for Christmas," explained Carol Smith of Prospect Heights who was shopping Friday at the Northpoint Shopping Center in Arlington Heights.

This weekend marked the opening of the Christmas shopping season, and thousands of gift buyers jammed the malls at Woodfield and Randhurst.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pasquale of Schaumburg said they at least try to start looking the day after Thanksgiving. The Pasquales say they are hoping to spend less.

Merchants are banking that 1973 will be a record sales year. More stores and more items, they say, should keep the Christmas cash registers ringing.

A RANDOM sample turned up visiting shoppers at Woodfield from Detroit, Philadelphia, Toledo, Phoenix, Milwaukee, Macomb, Moline, Decatur and Quincy. Most were area family guests filling out a long Thanksgiving weekend.

But some shoppers said they plan to do their gift selecting closer to home this year.

"I won't leave Barrington unless I have to for something," said Wendy Lageschulte. "I am watching prices and plan on making a lot of things myself."

Mr. and Mrs. Don Heffernan said they usually do their Christmas shopping in Arlington Heights and this year don't think the energy crisis will really change their buying habits.

"I won't let it affect my Christmas shopping," said Dorris Nichols of Mount Prospect. "I do try to help by turning off lights at home and putting down the heat a little," she said.

ELDERLY PEOPLE on fixed incomes have long been among consumers most sensitive to rising prices.

"We just can't afford to buy fancy gifts anymore," said a retired couple shopping for wrapping paper in downtown Palatine. The woman said she still wanted to exchange presents with family and friends, but this year would bake or make gifts in order to save money.

"High prices do cut the Christmas spirit because you can't afford to spend as much as you would like to," said a Mount Prospect mother of six who was out doing some "regular" shopping at Randhurst.

Many other shoppers, though, echoed the words of an 18-year-old Park Ridge girl who said, "I'm not cutting down — not on Christmas."

WHILE SHOPPERS may be wary of an economic recession brought on by energy shortages this winter, most apparently are reluctant, at least at this point, to let it dampen their holiday spirits.

As one man put it, "I think we're going to be in trouble. I'm just hoping it doesn't hit before February or March."

So what else is new?

You'll need more of that green stuff this year if you're planning to buy a real Christmas tree

by REGINA OEHLER

Like nearly everything else, the cost of a traditional Christmas is rising. That gently scented pine tree adorning homes this Christmas can cost up to 20 per cent more than last year.

Chicago Christmas tree wholesalers estimate a 5 to 20 per cent increase in costs. Trees in local nurseries may cost as much as $3 more than last year.

And a fuel crunch could raise costs of trees even more, making prices "sky-rocket," said a spokesman for M. Walter Christmas Trees, Chicago. He said he has received no definite information about a possible fuel shortage. "Who knows?" he added.

FUEL IS NEEDED both to cut the trees and to transport them. Since most of the trees sold in this area come from northern Wisconsin, Michigan or Canada, a fuel shortage could make freshly-cut trees hard to transport and drive up prices.

The 5 to 20 per cent estimated increase given by wholesalers is a result of pay raises, increased transportation costs and the higher price of fuel. There is presently no problem in obtaining enough trees.

Tim Navilio, manager of Joseph Navilio Co., Chicago, said this winter's supply will be plentiful. He said planters were cutting more trees in anticipation of a higher demand than last year.

Navilio estimated that the cost of labor was responsible for as much as half of the price increase. Employers are paying from 15 to 25 cents more per hour, he said.

TRANSPORTATION costs on the Canadian Pacific Ry. have increased 25 cents per 100 trees. The cost of trucking has increased about 10 per cent, Navilio added.

Chris Owen, manager for Frank's Nursery Sales in Arlington Heights, reports prices of trees are up about $1 over last year. "We're not making any more off of them," he added. "Our cost is higher."

Another area nursery, Klehm and Son's Nursery of Arlington Heights, has increased prices by about 10 per cent. There is no special increase in any one kind of tree, said nursery manager Al Goebert.

Prices of trees sold by the Rolling Meadows Jaycees have increased by 25 cents a foot.

Prices at Knupper Nursery and Garden Center, 1801 N. Rand Rd., Palatine, for five-to-nine-foot trees range from $6.95 to $12.95, slightly higher than last year.

The average price of balsam is $8. Pines range from $6.95 to $12.95.

CHRISTMAS TREES already are on sale and some may cost as much as 20 per cent more than last year. Wholesalers blame pay raises, higher transportation and fuel costs for the price hike, ranging from 5 to 20 per cent.

PTA notes

Milner Junior High School PTA will sponsor a program by Det. Rodney Kath of the Arlington Heights Police, Youth Division, at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the school.

A short information and general commentary on juvenile procedures used by the police department will be presented. Parents and teachers are urged to attend.

A special program explaining the drug scene in Arlington Heights is scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at Thomas Junior High School, 303 E. Thomas.

Sponsored by the Thomas PTA, the program will feature a film, "Art Linkletter Talks about Drugs." An Arlington Heights juvenile officer will speak on drugs and lead a discussion.

Parents are invited to bring their children of junior high and senior high school age to view the film and participate in the discussion.

Ivy Hill School PTA will sponsor a school, 2211 N. Burke Dr., Arlington Heights. The program, the first of a series, is "Student Evaluations," a dialogue between parents and faculty. The purpose of the forum is to improve effective communication between parents and educators.

Boosters will hear of school services

Parents will be able to find out about curriculum, self-scheduling and some of the special services offered to students at the meeting of the Rolling Meadows High School Academic Booster Club Thursday.

The club will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the

Deaths Elsewhere

PAUL A. ROSE, 77, of Chicago, died Thursday in St. Anne Hospital, Chicago. He was born in Chicago, July 26, 1896, and was a member of DeSoto Council, No. 517 Knights of Columbus; Illinois Degree Member of La Salle General Assembly and a retired member of the Milk Drivers Union, Local No. 753.

Funeral Mass will be said today at 10:30 a.m. St. Genevieve Catholic Church, 4835 W. Altgeld St., Chicago. Burial will be in All Saints Cemetery, Des Plaines.

Preceded in death by his wife, Anne, nee LaVelle, survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Dolores (Larry) Smith of Arlington Heights; two sons, Paul F. and daughter-in-law, Marion Rose of Milwaukee, Wis., and Jack J. and daughter-in-law, Therese Rose of Ossining, N.Y.; 20 grandchildren; one great-grandchild; two brothers, John P. and Albert, and a sister, Mrs. Frances Quackenbush.

Family requests, in lieu of flowers, Masses preferred.

William C. Smith and Sons Funeral Home, 2500 N. Cicero Ave., Chicago, is in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Task force urges better backstretch conditions

Investigation. The report first must be adopted by the Arlington Heights Village Board before the proposed agreement could be finalized. The board is expected to consider the report at its next meeting, Dec. 3.

IN THE event that agreement is not reached on the recommendations, the task force recommends that the village manager "initiate action to have the 1974 racing season canceled on the basis that there are an inadequate number of safe and sanitary living quarters for backstretch personnel and procedures for maintaining them.

"The report recommends what the committee believes is the most rational approach to a complex subject, while dealing fairly with all parties concerned, yet giving priority to the health and safety of backstretch personnel," said Darryl Kenning, assistant village manager and chairman of the special task force.
